Important Speech of Gov. Curtin to the Soldiers.

TELEGRAMS FROM HARRISBURGH.

HARRISBURGH, Pa., Friday, June 19.

Governor CURTIN visited Camp Curtin to-day, and was received with a warm and enthusiastic welcome.

The soldiers followed him in vast crowds as he drove around the camp, vainly endeavoring to find the Commandant.

At the unanimous importuning of the Volunteers he addressed them.

He spoke as follows:

"He had called to see their officers. He was sorry that they were not present attending to their duties as they should be. However, the men were here, and he would inform them of what he intended to have communicated to the officers in writing. He had some credit with the volunteers, and the reason was, that he had never broken faith with them. He was sorry there was some dissatisfaction about this call. He would tell the troops that they were called out only while this emergency lasted, and when that was over they would be returned to their homes. He was to be the judge when that emergency was over. Our soil has been invaded and we want to drive the invaders from it. You are called for this emergency and no longer.

To be sure the troops would be mustered into the United States service, but it was necessary to do this to secure equipments and pay from the General Government. It would be the same if he had called them out as militia, only they would be mustered for pay to the State Government. If I have kept faith heretofore with volunteers, you can trust my promise now. Those who come into camp and sow dissensions are both cowards and traitors. [Cries of "That's so."] Gov. SEYMOUR telegraphed last night that New-York had 12,000 men for Pennsylvania. [Loud cheers for New-York.] The highest devotion of our manhood is called upon at this hour. And, my friends, (said Gov. CURTIN, speaking with great seriousness and earnestness,) I will not betray you, and I will pledge myself in writing to what I have told you. Trust me, then, and I will send you to your homes just as soon as I think your services are no longer needed.

The Governor disclaimed being a military man. He would be acting in a false position were he to assume military lead. Responsible soldiers would lead them, and, said he, with much vehemence, I will not play the Cabinet of Washington upon the Army of the Rappahannock. [Loud cheering.] No one regrets more the circumstances that have necessitated your services, and no one cherishes more the memory of our gallant dead.

The troops retired, expressing themselves satisfied with the Governor's explanation.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 19.

I have just arrived from Chambersburgh. The enemy is no nearer that place than Greencastle. The main force of the raiding rebels is at Williamsport.

A squadron of cavalry, and the Eighth and Seventy-first New-York regiments have been sent by rail to Chambersburgh, from which place they will march to Greencastle, to attack and dislodge the enemy.

The Twenty-third Brooklyn and Twenty-second New-York regiments have been ordered across the Susquehanna to take the place of the two New-York regiments that have gone toward Chambersburgh.

This afternoon a train of cars freighted with lumber and other material for constructing bridges, went to Scotland. The object is to rebuild the bridge burnt by the rebels at that point. This will re-establish railroad communication to Chambersburgh.

Men are at work on the intrenchments that defend this city. The reapproach of the rebels even as far as Chambersburgh, however, is extremely doubtful, and it is believed that they will soon abandon this side of the State line altogether.

The Pennsylvania Militia are dissatisfied with the six months' term of service, and many of them are returning home. Everything depends upon the enrolled militia.

Gen. MILROY has gone to look after his troops, that were cut off from the main body of the army at Winchester, and made their escape into Pennsylvania.

According to late accounts, all is quiet at Chambersburgh and vicinity. WHIT.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 19.

There seems to be no doubt that the rebels are scattered along the north of the Potomac, from the river to McConnellsburgh. They are ravaging the country. Four thousand are at Hagerstown, with artillery, camped in the Seminary grounds. Cannon are planted on the Funkstown road.

The organization of the troops here is proceeding satisfactorily and rapidly. All difficulties are adjusted. Men are constantly arriving. The Eighth, Twenty-third and Seventy-first New-York regiments are here.

Gen. MILROY is advancing from the mountains with a large force.

The jail and court house at McConnellsburgh are burned.

Two rebel prisoners arrived here today. They were rebel scouts. There are eight thousand rebels between Hagerstown and Williamsport.

Negroes are hourly arriving here, and are scattered all along the railroad. The rebels seize all they can find.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Friday, June 19.

Two boatmen who left Williamsport on Wednesday evening report that at the time of their leaving, six regiments of mounted rebel infantry were encamped on this side of the river, and more were crossing.

Gen. RHODES' rebel headquarters were on the opposite side of the river at Hagerstown.

There were four rebel regiments of infantry encamped about two miles this side of the town.

At Williamsport the rebels were paroling all the citizens and boatmen.

The two boatmen had their paroled papers with them.

This morning MOSBY's cavalry is eight miles below Chambersburgh.

That portion of the rebel cavalry which left Greencastle in the direction of Mercersburgh yesterday, were at McConnellsburgh this morning, taking the road toward Hancock. They are on a horse and cattle-stealing expedition.

The Governor this morning reviewed the troops ordered on here by Gov. SEYMOUR, on the opposite side of the river.

Fresh troops continue to arrive in large numbers by every train, but not as rapidly as the State authorities would desire.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 19.

A prominent citizen of Hagerstown, who arrived at Gettysburgh to-day, telegraphs to Gov. CURTIN that when he left the latter place, the rebels were there with a force of eight thousand, consisting of mounted infantry, cavalry and artillery.

A dispatch dated McConnellsburgh, 3:50 P. M. to-day, stated that the rebels have crossed Cove Mountain on their way to Mercersburgh, with a large drove of cattle and horses.

The person giving the information accompanied them to the top of the mountain. The force was about 200 strong, without artillery. The authorities believe the rebels are in strong force at Williamsport, and that they are moving their ammunition this side of the river with the view of making it the base of operations.

The One Hundred and Seventy-second Pennsylvania regiment, now at Yorktown, whose time has expired, has tendered its service to Gov. CURTIN for six months, and been accepted.

The use of the churches and public buildings has been tendered for the troops concentrated here.

It has been suggested that the Government send dispatches twice a day, giving account of movements along the border, to every Postmaster within telegraphic communication, the object being to keep the citizens posted as to matters transpiring, the expense being borne by the State.

A dispatch received at 11 o'clock last night, states that the rebels have burnt the Court-house and Jail at McConnelsburgh to-day.

The following has been received by Gov. CURTIN this evening:

CHAMBERSBURGH—8:30 P. M.

One of the Cumberland Valley Railroad men, who resides at Hagerstown and is reliable, escaped through the rebel pickets at 9 o'clock this morning. He reports about 4,000 rebels at Hagerstown—infantry and artillery—with some of their cannon planted on the Funkstown road. He says, from the best information he could gather, there are between 8,000 and 10,000 men between Hagerstown and Williamsport, including the forces at Hagerstown.

JENKINS' cavalry are camped at Middlebury, on the State line, and are plundering and driving off the horses and cattle from that section.

Our informant saw several squads of cavalry at different points on the line of railroad, but avoided them.

At 1 o'clock, to-day, a small body passed through Greencastle to Waynesboro. EWELL was reported in command.

TELEGRAMS FROM SHIPPENSBURGH.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SHIPPENSBURGH, Penn., Friday, June 19, 9 A. M.

Last night considerable excitement was created in this place by the arrival of farmers from the neighborhood of Chambersburgh, who brought with them all their stock of horses, in anticipation of the advance of the rebels. The town is one vast stable.

The rebels hold Greencastle with a force of two hundred men. They are scouting the country in all directions in search of horses. Last night a traitor led the rebels to a gap in the mountain near Greencastle, where they took sixty horses which had been secreted by citizens.

The apparent object of the rebels is to steal horses and run off negroes. A gentleman just in, says that between Chambersburgh and Greencastle he met a rebel officer, followed by five contrabands, all of whom were mounted on captured horses. Along the line of railway, between this point and Harrisburgh, are hundreds of contrabands proceeding to the latter place to escape the rebel grasp.

The train of cars that came up last evening was all night kept in readiness to depart East at a moment's notice of the rebel approach. Some of the citizens of the place have made preparations for a hasty exit in the event of an emergency. The railroad communication between here and Chambersburgh is severed, but the telegraph is working. At present everything is quiet at Chambersburgh.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. MILROY.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 19—9 P. M.

It is understood that Gen. MILROY is advancing toward the east with 4,000 mounted infantry and 5,000 riflemen well mounted, from the mountains.

HUNTINGDON, Penn., June 19.

Gen. MILROY has established his headquarters at Bloody Run. With him are his Adjutant, JOHN O. CRAVENS, and also Major McGEE, of his Staff. He has ordered Col. GALLAGHER, who has command at Bradford, to report at his new headquarters, with all the United States forces under his command, which now consist of the Twelfth Pennsylvania cavalry, Lieut.-Col. MOSS; First New-York cavalry, Major ADAMS, and a portion of the Thirteenth, under Capt. SHEARMAN, Lieuts. REEKS, REILLY and McDOUETT.

There are at Bloody run the One hundred and Sixteenth regiment Ohio volunteers, Col. JAMES WASHBURN, and the Twelfth regiment Virginia volunteers, Col. JOHN B. KLASK.

TELEGRAMS FROM BEDFORD, PA.

BEDFORD, Pa., Thursday, June 18.

Three hundred rebels came to Hancock, Md., and burned the canal boats there.

A cavalry force from the command of Col. GALLAGHER, subsequently drove the rebels off.

Seven hundred rebels, by a flank movement, came to St. John's River, intending to destroy a large culvert opposite Hancock. They were driven back by Col. GALLAGHER after an hour's fight. Only two of the First New-York cavalry were slightly wounded.

Gen. KELLY then ordered Col. GALLAGHER to proceed with infantry and cavalry to Cumberland.

Col. GALLAGHER went within six miles of Cumberland, when he received word from Gen. KELLEY that ten thousand rebels were at Cumberland.

Gen. KELLEY, himself, went to New Creek.

The First New-York cavalry, the Twelfth Pennsylvania cavalry, a portion of the Thirteenth, One Hundred and Sixteenth and Twelfth Virginia regiments, and a part of the Eighth Pennsylvania regiment, are safe.

I have seen Col. GALLAGHER, commanding these regiments, which constituted a portion of Gen. MILROY's command, and which were supposed to be taken prisoners.

TELEGRAMS FROM BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Friday, June 19.

A considerable rebel infantry force is posted on the Virginia side at Williamsport, and it is reported that there is another infantry force of the enemy near Antietam or Shepardstown, and about to cross over.

TELEGRAMS FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 19.

Application was made yesterday by Gen. COUCH for the services of Gen. HENRY M. NAGLEE, who is now here, not entirely recovered from severe illness, to aid in organizing the State troops. But it was peremptorily refused by Gen. HALLECK. This refusal is sincerely regretted, as at present the advice of able and experienced army officers is greatly needed at Harrisburgh. Gen. NAGLEE, although not able to resume active service in the field, is willing to test his strength in defence of his native State.

NEW-YORK REGIMENTS.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

The Men Moving in the Lightest Marching Order.

The Whole Army Pushing Forward with Great Rapidity.

A MARCH WITHOUT A PARALLEL.

From Our Special Correspondent.

ON THE MARCH, VIRGINIA, Wednesday, June 17, 1863.

The Army of the Potomac progresses with huge strides toward the supposed position of the enemy. A fearful collision cannot be avoided many days longer. The weather is terribly hot, the roads, fields, the very air filled with interminable clouds of dust, and the brave men suffer, but they march with a velocity such as never before has been known on this continent. Twenty to twenty-three miles per day in such weather is something unheard of heretofore. One day has been spent since Saturday to let all the corps get up well in hand, and the whole army is now pushing forward with great rapidity. Further particulars concerning our march it would be imprudent to give now, but I venture to say that when all the facts are known, it will be acceded that this march has no parallel.

On Monday Gen. HOOKER, with Staff and train, broke camp at three o'clock, and before sundown were in a new camp twenty-five miles distant.

Everything is reduced to the very lightest marching order. Trains are cut down, wagons and baggage are being reduced to a smaller limit than ever before. Yesterday Gen. HOOKER ordered his Staff, and the members of all the Staff Departments at headquarters, to dispense with all their baggage, including valises, carpet bags, &c., and they were sent to the rear to-day. All they take is a change of under-clothing, rolled in their blankets, or put in their saddle-bags or pockets, wherever most convenient. Headquarters goes in lighter order than anything else.

Notwithstanding the intense heat, there is very little straggling. A strong Provost-Guard of cavalry brings up the rear of each corps, and everything moves with great vigor.

The direction of our march may be spoken of probably, in a day or two, when it will have become apparent to the public.

A curious fact connected with the late cavalry fight I must not forget to relate before the recollection of the fight has died away. A couple of days after the fight Gen. PLEASANTON's command made a requisition for twenty grindstones with which to grind up their sabres. This is a positive fact, and illustrates very pointedly the nature of the contest. Hand-to-hand it was in earnest. L. L. CROUNSE.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, June 18.

The Aeronautic corps of the Army of the Potomac has been dispensed with, and the balloons and inflating apparatus have been sent to this city.

The several army corps are steadily assuming the positions respectively assigned to them.

The First army corps, on Sunday marched 23 miles, on Monday 15, and on Tuesday 30 miles. This, considering the intense heat of the weather and previous long marches, is an extraordinary performance. The distance the corps marched yesterday is not known, but was probably 20 miles. Other corps have made rapid marches, but none have accomplished so great a distance.

RECONNISSANCE OF AQUIA CREEK.

WASHINGTON, Friday, June 19.

Yesterday or the day before four boats crews, were sent ashore at Aquia Creek to reconnoiter. Going out on the Railroad they encountered twenty five or thirty rebel cavalry men, who dashed among them, firing as they advanced. The seamen returned the fire and retreated in safety.

The rebel cavalry employed themselves for a short time in examining the empty storehouses, but a few well-directed shots from our gunboats caused them to skedaddle as rapidly as their horses could carry them.

The boat this morning brought up a number of stragglers from Stafford Court-House. They left there Wednesday night. There were at that time no rebels in the vicinity, nor did they see any on the way.

THE CAVALRY FIGHT AT ALDIE.

Full Particulars by Our Special Correspondent.

One of the Sharpest Cavalry Battles of The War.

Two Brigades of Rebels Defeated by Gen. Gregg's Advance.

Stuart Commanding the Rebels in Person.

Gallant Charge of the Harris Light Cavalry.

The Enemy Driven Out of a Very Strong Position.

ALDIE, Wednesday, June 17, 1863.

The advance of Gen. GREGG's cavalry command reached this place at about 2 o'clock this afternoon, where two brigades of the enemy, commanded by Gen. STUART in person, were found in possession. After three hours' hard fighting they were forced to retire. The fight, while it lasted, was one of the sharpest that has occurred during the war, and as a consequence the loss of officers and men on both sides is very heavy.

The enemy's pickets were first encountered a little east of the village by Companies H and M, of the Second New-York (Harris Light) cavalry, under the command of Lieut. DAN. WHITTAKER, and were by them driven through the town back to a ridge of hills half a mile to the west, extending across from the Middleburgh and Snicker's Gap Road, where the rebel force was in position ready for action. The advance brigade, under Gen. KILPATRICK, immediately moved through to the westerly edge of the town. The First Maine, Col. DOUTY, was sent off to a point half a mile to the left, and the Fourth New-York, Col. CESNOLA, to the right, to support a section of ANDREWS' battery placed on a rise of ground north of the Snicker's Gap road. The enemy at this time occupied the hill, as before stated, where they had four guns in position; a line of their skirmishers occupied a fence on the eastern slope, and a long ditch, just in front of which were half a dozen stacks of hay—thus commanding both Middleburgh and Snicker's Gap roads. A stronger position could not well have been selected.

When the exact position of the enemy had been ascertained by drawing their fire, Gen. KILPATRICK rode up to the Second New-York (Harris' Light,) and said then was the time for them to wipe out the reflection cast upon them for their alleged misconduct in the fight of last week, at Brandy Station. He ordered them to charge into the valley and secure the hay-stacks—the ditch or ravine at the rear of this position had not then been discovered. Companies H and M, accompanied by Lieuts. WHITTAKER, RAYMOND, MARTINSON, HOMAN and STUART, moved off down the Middleburgh road, the fence to the right was quickly thrown down, and with a dash, this forlorn-hope rushed up to the hay-stacks. For the first time their fire was opened from the ditch a little to the rear of the hay-stacks. This was filled with rebel cavalry—many of them armed with rifles. Capt. GRINTAR, with Lieuts. MATTISON and SHAEER, and Company K, dashed up immediately to the support of these companies, F, I, D and G, went to the right up the Snicker's Gap road a piece, turned to the left, crossed the field, and reached the scene of conflict in time to take an active part. The contest for twenty minutes at this point was about as spirited a scene as is often witnessed on a battle-field. The Sixth Ohio, Maj. STEADMAN, was sent up the road to the left to support the Harris' Light, when the whole command, with the Major at its head, dashed into the fight just in time to decide the unequal contest. The rebels were forced to abandon their position, and all who were not killed or captured fled precipitately up the hill. They made a short stand behind the fence, when a dash from a battalion of the Fourth New-York, called in from its position behind the battery, together with the other regiments already named, drove them pell mell over the hill. The First Maine, at about this time, was called in from the left, and with the First Massachusetts, stationed on the Snicker's Gap road, to a position held by the Second battalion of the Fourth New-York. The rebels, at this time, charged down the same road and drove before them a squadron, when Gen. KILPATRICK ordered the First Maine, Col. DOUTY, First Massachusetts, Lieut. Col. CURTIS, and a battalion of the Fourth New-York, under Col. CESNOLA, to charge up the road. There was a little hesitancy at first, when Gen. KILPATRICK, accompanied by Col. DOUTY of the First Maine, and Capt. COSTAR of Gen. PLEASANTON's Staff, went to the front and called upon the troops to follow. There was no hesitancy then. The Maine boys gave three cheers for Gen. KILPATRICK, and the whole column made a dash up the road in the face of a terrible fire from carbines, rifles and cannon, sweeping everything before them. This virtually ended the fight. The rebels, after a little more skirmishing, fell back, and our forces to-night occupy their position.

Col. CESNOLA was under arrest at the commencement of the action, but set such a gallant example to his men, by leading the first charge without his sword, that upon returning to the road, Gen. KILPATRICK released him from arrest, and placed upon him his own sword. He immediately after participated in the charge with the First Maine, First Massachusetts and Fourth New-York, and has not been seen since. A sergeant of the regiment asserts that he saw the Colonel fall, and is sure that he was killed, and some of the rebel prisoners confirm this report. But the report of his death is not generally believed. In this charge Gen. KILPATRICK had a horse shot under him, and Col. DOUTY, of the First Maine, was killed. When returning from the charge, the body was found by Capt. VAUGHN, who had it properly cared for. Two shots struck him—probably at about the same time. The First Massachusetts captured the battle-flag of the Fourth Virginia cavalry.

More than 100 prisoners were captured—members, principally, of the First, Third, Fourth and Fifth Virginia cavalry. They say they were under the command of Gen. STUART. Among the prisoners is one Colonel, three Majors and a lot of line officers. The Major and sixty men, who were stationed behind the hay-stacks, were nearly all captured. The Major considered his position impregnable, not believing that any cavalry would dare make a charge upon the place, swept as the whole field was by three lines of guns.

The meeting of Gen. GREGG's command was entirely unexpected by the rebels. STUART had arrived thus far on a forced march into Maryland—having marched 25 miles this morning, and expecting to be on the road again in the evening. Two regiments had entered the town, and had pressed into their service all the blacksmith tools to be found; and when our advance guard approached they were busily engaged shoeing horses. To-day, the command of Col. DUFFIE passed through Thoroughfare Gap after a brief fight, and to-night occupies Middleburgh, five miles from Aldie, and in the rear of STUART's army. STUART will have to fight to-morrow at a disadvantage, or, what is more probable, sneak off to-night. Capt. ALLEN, of the Fourth New-York cavalry, came through the rebel lines with this news.

During the engagement to-day, Gen. GREGG managed affairs in a manner reflecting the highest credit upon his profession. He was fortunate not only in having an efficient staff but able commanders under him to execute all orders received.

Annexed will be found a pretty full list of the killed and wounded. E. A. PAUL.

The wounded in the cavalry fight at Aldie were brought here to-day and placed in the hospitals. Many of them are very severely injured.

OUR CHAMBERSBURGH CORRESPONDENCE

The Doings of the Rebels at Chambersburgh and Greencastle—Numerous Horses Stolen—The Fright of the People, &c.

CHAMBERSBURGH, Penn., Friday, June 19, 1863.

The reports indicating that the rebels had burned Government stores and destroyed an immense amount of property in this place and at Greencastle, are entirely without foundation. All the rebels did to exasperate the people was to take their horses and force the contrabands to depart with them. Private property has thus far been respected. The railroad depot is not burned; neither are the Government warehouses. Several persons have lost severely in the way of valuable horses. One man had taken from him seventeen, and another fifteen. The rebels know just where to go for horses, having been informed of their locality in the mountains by traitors about town. A number of farmers, instead of taking their stock into the dense woods, left them in the gap of the mountain where they were soon discovered and led off by the rebels.

Only a small force of rebels is at Greencastle. The force is sufficiently large, however, to keep the citizens in this vicinity in a feverish state of excitement. Last night several alarms were given, and at one time it was actually thought that the rebels had entered the place. Before dark a great many people left the town and proceeded to Shippensburgh, twelve miles below.

As railroad communication to Harrisburgh is suspended in consequence of the burning of a bridge by the rebels near Scotland, it is almost impossible for a stranger to find means for getting here. The people living in the adjoining towns are not willing to risk their horses to go the distance, and as for engaging them to drive a person to Chambersburgh, no fee would tempt them on such, to them, hazardous undertaking. When coming up, last night, we met a score of frightened and bewildered men pushing forward with all possible speed to Shippensburgh.

A train of cars freighted with lumber and other requisite material for rebuilding the burnt railroad bridge, came up to Scotland this morning. It is possible the cars will be running to this point to-morrow or next day. A squadron of cavalry also came up from Harrisburgh, and are now on the way to Greencastle to dislodge the enemy.

If the people on the line of the railroad would, instead of running away from the enemy the moment they hear a rumor of his advance, seize a weapon of some kind and go forth to drive the invader from their soil, they would appear to a much better advantage in the view of all brave and true loyal men.

What the real designs of the rebels may be does not yet seem clear. It is certain that a small force only is at Greencastle. The main body of their raiding force is at Williamsport. WHIT.

THE REBEL ARMY.

Stuart's Main Cavalry Force, 12,000 Strong, at Warrenton.

Lee's Army Massed in the Shenandoah Valley.

A Probable Attempt to Turn Our Right Flank and Enter Maryland.

WASHINGTON, Friday, June 19.

A couple of deserters from STUART's cavalry, who have come within our lines, say that STUART's cavalry force is at Warrenton, twelve thousand strong, and that LEE's army is massed in the Shenandoah Valley, near Front Royal, or somewhere between that point and Winchester. It consists of four corps, commanded by LONGSTREET, EWELL, A. P. and D. H. HILL, and numbers about eighty thousand men. The forces which were sent to Martinsburgh and Winchester, to capture our forces there, have returned to the general rendezvous.

They also state that the whole army is preparing to march, and will probably try to turn Gen. HOOKER's right flank, and cross into Maryland. The rebel soldiers have little confidence in the success of this movement, remembering with wholesome fear the ill success attendant upon a similar movement last Fall.

POSITION AND INTENTIONS OF LEE.

WASHINGTON, Friday, June 19.

From the statement of Col. DUFFIE it appears that on Wednesday afternoon, when Gen. GREGG had carried the stone wall near Aldie and driven the rebel cavalry toward Snickersville, he (DUFFIE) was ordered to proceed to Middleburgh and hold that point. His regiment went into the engagement with 335 men and 24 officers. On arriving at Middleburgh he was informed by ladies that a force of rebel cavalry, greatly outnumbering his own, were encamped around the town. This was evidenced by the fact that he had dispersed a brigade who opposed his entrance, and were then making demonstrations upon him from another point. He was also told that the whole of STUART's force were in the vicinity, but that STUART himself had just left by another route to reinforce LEE, who was then falling back from Aldie. Determined to carry out his instructions, he sent back messengers to Aldie asking for reinforcements. In the meantime, the rebels in force attacked Col. DUFFIE at several different points. Finding himself overpowered by superior numbers, and surrounded on every side, he attempted to cut his way back toward Aldie. Failing in effecting this, he turned toward Thoroughfare Gap, and proceeded several miles, when he ascertained that the Gap was held by EWELL, commanding the grand centre of LEE's army, and that LEE was thereabout in person. Col. DUFFIE then defiled to the left, crossed the mountain at Hope Gap, and by a tortuous route succeeded in reaching our outposts. Among the missing officers of his command are Lieut.-Col. Thompson, Major Farrington, Capts. Shortliff, Bliss, Rogers, Allen, Chase, Gould and Wyman, Adjutant Parker, Surgeon Mann, Lieutenants Shurtleff, Chadell, Peterson, Brown, Prentiss, Barker and Ellis. It is possible that many of the missing may have escaped and found their way to Gen. GREGG's command by other routes.

This reconnoissance of our cavalry has solved the mystery of the present location of LEE and EWELL. From this source it is also ascertained that LONGSTREET was, on Wednesday, at Union, Loudon County, in the Bull Run Valley. Advices from below say that A. P. HILL's advance guard, consisting of HAMPTON's legion, was advancing toward Dumfries, and that one regiment had made its appearance at Stafford Court-house. Combining these facts, intelligent officers draw the conclusion that LEE is advancing upon the Army of the Potomac in three columns, his right under HILL, by way of Occoquan and Wolfe Run Shoals, his centre, under EWELL, by way of Thoroughfare Gap, and his left, under LONGSTREET, by way of Leesburgh. In this connection, it is only necessary to say that such disposition has been made of our army by Gen. HOOKER that no surprise can possibly take place.

The families of many officers who were visiting the field are returning hither to-day, and there are other indications of an approaching conflict. A few hours will probably develop further movements and intentions on the part of LEE's forces, which are now said to be upward of 90,000 strong.

Scattering reports of guns were heard in the direction of Aldie yesterday, and were renewed at intervals this morning. Nothing is as yet heard of the result.

Treason in Indiana.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

The Results of the Elections—Their Significance.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Tuesday, June 2, 1863.

The Democracy of Paris are in ecstacies to-day at their triumph over the Government, and nearly everybody is rejoicing at having found a way of making a revolution without the shedding of blood, the sacking of houses and the destruction of commerce. The majority for the Opposition list is in fact overwhelming, and has taken everyone by surprise. M. GUEROULT, the editor of the Opinion Nationale, is not elected by this vote, because there were four candidates in his district, and by the French law, a majority over all is required; but he will be elected at the second trial, a fortnight hence, by a large majority, and thus not only will every district of Paris and the Department of the Seine, in which the Capital is situated, send an Opposition member to the Chamber, but they will be sent there by large majorities. M. THIERS' majority in the Second District, although large, is the smallest of all; but it was in this district that the Government labored the hardest to elect its candidate, and it was here that the most "pipe-laying" was practiced, for to this district the transfer of Government employes was most easily operated. Yet M. THIERS leads his opponent by two thousand votes. The abstentions of the socialists, the ultra legitimists and clericals, have been numerous, so that if these are counted in with the votes cast for the Opposition, Paris stands three-fourth at least against the Government.

What is the signification of this peaceful revolution? Commencing with the peace of Villafranca, the administration of NAPOLEON III. has been more noted for its errors than for its great acts. His Majesty's Italian policy since the event mentioned has been a series of blunders, condemned by an immense majority of the intelligent people of the country; his Mexican expedition is regarded by the greatest number as a blunder of such magnitude as to imply imbecility somewhere in high places; while the costliness of the Government and the gradual increase of taxes has displeased all that class, especially immediately above the workmen—that is to say the small tax-payers. But, perhaps, more than all this France is ashamed to see all the nations around her, all the people with whom she has most to do and who take her as model for most things, enjoying more liberty than she does. The English, the Italians, the Germans, the Swiss, the Belgians, are all to-day living under the parliamentary system the life of free nations while France, which professes to give them laws, literature, science, arts and diplomacy, maintains a muzzled Press and a muzzled Legislature. The contrast is too crying not to have awakened the most lethargic of political existences, and this sense of shame is in part due the crushing defeat of the Government. NAPOLEON is not, in fact, up with the times. He has talked loudly of liberty in his speeches, but the people find that promises in his mouth were like those in the mouths of other monarchs—only made to be forgotten; and so they determined to give him a lesson. Henceforth the question will be daily rung in his ears: Are we a nation of children to be led by the nose, or are we a people capable of a dignified and manly existence?

Much of this uprising of the people of Paris is due to M. EMILE DE GIRARDIN—to the man who, when he lately came back to journalism, uttered in his salutatory to the public the singular absurdity that the Press had no power in the changing of public opinion. There is no such pen in France for the awakening of a sleeping people as that of M. DE GIRARDIN; the ringing, sledge-hammer blows he has dealt the Government in the contest just closed has reinstated him in the public estimation as the master of the situation." Nor is there another so competent in the art of dodging the law and the technicalities while dealing out truths hard to swallow.

In the Departments, where the Prefects control the people much as they please, there is less change, and perhaps but three prominent Opposition members—Messrs. BERRYER, MARIE and HENON—are elected. So that with the nine of Paris the new Opposition in the Chamber will only count twelve members. But these twelve are a host in the size of their talents and in the prestige they will carry into the House. Nobody anticipated the election of a large number of Opposition members, for the country districts, under the lead of the Government employes, are hopelessly pledged to Bonapartism. But Paris is France—that is to say, the heart and soul of the Empire; and the moral effect of the verdict of Paris will be immense throughout the whole country.

Messrs. ODILON BARROT, DUFAURE, Count DE MONTALEMBERT, Count DE REMUSAT, CASIMIR PERIER, ST. MARC GIRARDIN, DE BAUMONT, DE LASTEYRIE and other leading candidates from among the Opposition, are probably all defeated.

Of the nine Deputies returned for Paris, six are journalists, which gives an idea of the esteem in which the profession of letters is held at Paris.

MALAKOFF.

Striking Letter from a Southern Father to His Son in the Rebel Army.

Numerous mail-bags have fallen into the hands of the National troops in Louisiana. The universal usage of war declares captured mails of the enemy property of the captor, and a National officer was appointed to examine the captured letters and to make a report to headquarters accordingly. Several of these letters have reached us, but, instructive as they are, we can find room for publishing one only. We omit the name of the writer and of the intended recipient, as well as of the place whence it was sent, for obvious reasons. If its remarkable contents should induce any readers to doubt its genuineness, we would state that the original was given to us for publication by a gentleman whose honor and veracity no one has ever doubted. We have omitted those portions only, together with those paragraphs relating to family affairs:

APRIL 5, 1863.

MY DEAR SON: The Government are buying all the oxen, wagons and cotton they can get here, to go to Mexico, at the highest figures, if you count paper dollars, and some say they are threatening to take what cot on they cannot get at 15 cents. Mine is well stored away, and I will not sell it for 40 cents a pound in this currency. If they take it, I have then something to say I never have said, and I shall not be alone to speak. The spirit of "give me liberty or give me death" is fast swelling the heart of many a bosom. The cup of despotism is nearly full to overflowing. The reign of terror, sooner or later, finds a limit to its iron grasp. Our kind Heavenly Father looks down, and finding no man that is able to wield the sceptre of justice, signally interferes Himself, and avenges the wrongs of his chosen ones. Is not the voice of thousands of innocent ones, both in and out of the war, crying to God from the ground? Your mother, like many others, sleeps, but yet she speaks. I never in my life told or wrote a scandalous tale to excite and array the North against the South, or the South against the North. I never laid violent hands upon the Constitution that I was sworn to support, and said I would no longer be governed by its teachings. But our preachers are everywhere trying to console us, by telling us this war is for our sins. But God does not say so. He says every man shall suffer for his own sins, so far as He inflicts. You and I and your mama have suffered in this war, but it was not the hand of God against us; but it was the hand of wicked men. I have been a great sinner against God, but I have never sinned against my nation This war may be sent for the preacher's sins, but I am not green enough to say, yes, and for mine too. Let the preacher who encourages and leads on thousands to take the life of his fellow-countrymen, take heed lest he fall under the denomination of those murderers who shall have "their part in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone for ever and ever." An eternity of happiness or misery is of too much moment to be trifled with, and I will never trifle with it, although my body be killed a thousand times told. But I will rather fear Him who can destroy both soul and body in hell. I speak as a dying man to one who must sooner or later die. "May we die the death of the righteous, and may our last end be like his," is my prayer. But our preachers tell us if we are scrupulous about taking life in this war, that the Bible requires us "to obey the powers that be." Well, I suppose then, that if a band of robbers and murderers had captured me at my house, and taken me to the house of a dear brother, I must kill that brother, because, forsooth, they told me to do it or they would kill me, and they had become the powers that be. What will God do to such shepherds of his flock for such perversion of his sacred word? Conscience is a friendly monitor, and, if cultivated, will guide us in matters of right and wrong. This thing bears too heavily on my mind to withhold speaking, lest my God holds me accountable for silence. The Bible says, "Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind." I am persuaded that this war is wrong and uncalled for, and no power has any right to force me into it against my judgment to remain neutral any more than it has a British or French subject. I cannot find a man who can give even a plausible reason for this dreadful war, that is to seal the eternal destiny of thousands; but they say that we are in it, and that we must fight it out, or the world will say that they whipped us. So, I suppose, that a rebellious son, trampling on and resisting the government of a good father, should continue to resist and beat his father, lest the world would say that father humbled his son. Awful fallacy! He should go like the prodigal son, and the best and fattest calf would soon be killed. This is a feeling that now everywhere exists: we were too fast; but we can find no place to back out. "If I have done wrong, I will go and sin no more." Those were our Saviour's words, and I think he was as wise as those that can find no place to stop sinning; but they say we could never live with our father again with a good feeling, after contending so strongly against each other; but I have known many instances where they have done it, and were better sons than ever before, after they found place for repentance. The prodigal could live with his father. New-Orleans is glad to have a chance to stay with hers, as shown by her late election.

My dear son, search the Scriptures, pray always for wisdom and discretion from above, and obey the voice of God at all times, knowing we all soon have to appear before Him and give an account of our stewardship, and happy will it be for that soul that is found not trusting in the powers that be, but in the Rock that is higher than he. My grief about you is great, and at this time of my bereavement would be insupportable could I not console myself that your trust is in God, and that He will cause all things to work together for good to you and me, for we love God and will serve him. Our troubles will soon end, and we shall go to a better world. I was asked a few days since by one who was present and heard the request of your dying mother, if I expected to go with you, children, and visit our relations when the war closed. I answered that I expected then to be in a better world than this, where no war is ever known. There's no news worth relating. The rich men that have negroes are mostly at home doing well, while the farms of the poor are a waste. The sons of the rich are being educated, while the sons of the poor are in ignorance, never being qualified to contend for justice. This is as many would have it—a few lords occupy to the soil and all seats of emolument and honor. Write me often. I shall ever humbly pray my God that we may yet live to see one another again in the flesh, and that He may give you much heavenly wisdom and understanding. It pains me that I can do no more than now say to you, farewell my son, from your father, &c.

THE TURF.

Fourth $5,000 Trotting Match between George M. Patchen and Gen. Butler.

The match, two miles and repeat, to wagons, between these horses, took place Thursday, on the Fashion Course, in presence of about 1,500 spectators. The betting was 100 to 40 on Patchen, who lost the first heat, by only half a length, and was nearly a distance behind at the end of the second heat. The race was, however, awarded to Patchen, on account of the driver of Butler crossing Patchen and breaking him up, when but a length ahead of him, as they passed the judges' stand on entering the second mile of the last heat. The judges were nearly three-quarters of an hour before they came to a decision, when two of them agreed to distance Butler for foul driving, the third loudly dissenting, and advising those who had bet on Butler not to pay, and declared all bets off. This advice was not attended to, as bets were generally paid over under the decision of the majority of the judges.

First Heat—Butler had the inside and a length the best at the start, and reached the quarter pole in 36½, Patchen being close up at the half mile in 1:14, but fell off three lengths in going round the three-quarter turn. He made a splendid brush up the home-stretch, and was only one length behind Butler as they passed into the second mile in 2:27. Butler increased this lead to a couple of lengths at the quarter pole, Patchen slightly reducing it as they passed the half-mile in 1:12½; from which point he fell off again some four lengths in going round the last turn. A pretty rally took place down the home-stretch for the lead, ending in Butler breaking up as he crossed the score, three-quarters of a length in advance, in 4:56½.

Second Heat—Butler had the advantage of half a length in starting, and passed the half mile four lengths ahead, in 1:15; the new stand five lengths ahead, when he broke up, and Patchen, who had made several breaks previously, rapidly closed up by square trotting, within a length of Butler at the score, in 2:32, when the unfortunate—or fortunate—affair took place which distanced Butler. From this point Patchen made a series of bad breaks, which, as previously stated nearly caused him to be distanced, which additional point of discussion for the judges was merely saved by Butler coming in under a strong pull; MACE having the idea that TALLMANN had no cause of complaint. The heat of the day, and the thieves and three-card monte men in the Flushing Railroad cars, were, if possible, more intolerable than ever.

Ball Play.

ATHLETIC, OF PHILADELPHIA, VS. ATLANTIC, OF BROOKLYN.

Thursday the Athletics played with the famous Atlantics, whose battles and triumphs have gained for them fame in every place where base ball is played. The Atlantics were deprived of the championship last season by their old ally, the Eckford. They are determined, however, to regain their lost laurels. To accomplish this they have revived the spirit which instigated them in years gone by, and which was perceptible in the match yesterday, which was by far the most interesting of any played thus far. In batting and fielding both sides made fine displays. LOUGHERY played in the place of GASKELL, on the Athletic side, which is the first change made in the series. The contest was witnessed by some 6,000 persons, a large number of whom were of the fair sex. We annex the score:

ATHLETIC, OF PHILADELPHIA, VS. STAR, OF SOUTH BROOKLYN—THE PHILADELPHIANS VICTORIOUS.

The above Clubs played together, yesterday afternoon, on the Union grounds, at Williamsburgh, the result being a victory for the Athletics by a score of 37 to 17. The contest was witnessed by some 2,000 people. The large majority of the Athletics in the first inning gave them such a lead that their opponents were unable to make any headway whatever. Naval.

EXPERIMENT OF THE SUB-MARINE BATTERY.

Capt. HUNT, of the United States Engineers, yesterday took the sub-marine battery What Is It from the Brooklyn Navy-yard, to try further experiments in the harbor. Some officers of the army and navy went with him. Shots were fired from under water to an astonishing height, and evolutions performed which demonstrated the entire success of the battery. The Government is about to construct a very large vessel, on Capt. HUNT's plan, which will effectually remove all obstructions in harbors.

THE PRIZE STEAMER CHEROKEE.

In the United States District Court, Boston, the case of the prize steamer Cherokee came up, when no claimant appeared. Testimony was read, by which it was shown that this vessel was the British steamer Thistle, which sailed from Glasgow bound to Nassau, last Winter, under British flag and papers, and thence to Charleston, running the blockade with a cargo of firearms and other munitions of war. At Charleston she was sold, and she ran out on the night of the 8th of May, and was captured by the United States steamer Canandaigua. A decree of condemnation was rendered.

The steamer has been taken by the Government for the use of the navy; and the cargo, which was cotton, has been sold.

ADMIRAL FOOTE.

This distinguished officer experienced a slight change for the better yesterday afternoon, and late yesterday evening was no worse. His physicians entertain some slight hope of his recovery.

VESSELS TO BE LAUNCHED.

The following United States vessels of war will be launched within a month:

Name.	Rate.	Where.
1. Tecumseh........	Iron-clad........	Jersey.
2. Mahopac........	Iron-clad........	Jersey.
3. Maumee........	Screw Gunboat....	New-York.

6. Mingoe........	Double-ender....	Bordentown.
7. Wateree........	Double-ender....	Chester, Penn.

Beside the above, four or five other vessels rating with the Tecumseh will be afloat. The four navy-yard iron-clads will be the next after these.

Institute of Reward for Orphans of Patriots.

The annual meeting of the Institute of Reward was held on Thursday last at the Free Academy, the President, VALENTINE MOTT, M. D., in the Chair, supported by HORACE WEBSTER, LL.D., and SAMUEL BELL, D. D., Vice-Presidents. The annual report was read by DAVID P. HOLTON, M. D., Corresponding Secretary. During the year past the exertions of the Institute have been mainly directed to urging upon the State Legislatures their acceptance of the Congressional grant of land for agricultural and educational purposes, and toward securing provisions, by which, in the selection of students for the colleges and experimental farms endowed by the grant, preference shall be given to the orphans of those dying in the defence of their country; and also, toward procuring a supplemental fund for the support of a preparatory department for a younger class of orphans on the said farms. Governors, Congressmen, Assemblymen, and others, have been seen and consulted, and the objects of the Institute have been made known to large numbers of the people, in meetings held for this purpose, in various parts of the country, and have everywhere been received with cordiality. Especially has this been the case in the camps, where our troops have found in this movement new encouragement for their devotion to the country's service.

Mr. PLINY M. FORWARD will continue to urge the claims of the Institute as its agent in the New-England States.

Grateful acknowledgments were tendered to those who by pecuniary aid or personal effort have contributed to further the objects of the Institute, especially to SAMUEL B. BELL, D. D., Mr. OSCANYAN, Rev. Dr. CHEEVER and DANIEL J. MACGOWAN, M. D., for their interesting lectures in its behalf; and to MARSHALL O. ROBERTS and ALEXANDER KNOX, Esq., for their liberal donations. Contributions may be directed to A. F. WILLMARTH, Treasurer, No. 135 Broadway.

After the reading of the report, remarks were made by the President, by CHAS. GOULD, Esq., Dr. RICHARDS, ALEX. KNOX, Esq., Dr. WEBSTER, M. M. VAIL, Esq., and other members present; a vote of thanks tendered to the indefatigable Corresponding Secretary, and the report ordered to be printed for general circulation.

Resolutions of the Children's Aid Society.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Children's Aid Society, at the Metropolitan Bank, Wednesday, 17th inst., WM. A. BOOTH, Esq., in the chair, the following resolutions were adopted with reference to the lamented death of WM. C. GILMAN, one of the founders of the Society:

Whereas, Our friend and late fellow-manager, WM. C. GILMAN, has, in the course of nature, been removed from the earthly scenes of his usefulness, and it is becoming that we should record our sense of the value of his services where we were connected with him;

Resolved, That in our separation from our friend, our pain is overcome by the memory of his life, which was so profitable to many. He was not only long and earnestly engaged in varied plans for doing good, in which we took no part, but in this cause of the poor children of our City he gave his services most freely. They appealed to him as poor, abandoned, ignorant, vicious, but young, and the impulses of his affection, guided by Christian faith, embraced them as the partakers of a common nature and priceless destiny. He was one of the founders of our Society, advised and aided in its formation, helped to lay out the course it has since pursued, became one of its managers at the first election, and occupied the same post with clear-sighted, single-hearted fidelity to the hour of his departure. His interest in our plans was tempered by sound judgment, and his counsels were marked by practical wisdom and knowledge of the world. In all that he said and did among us, the integrity of business habits was found side by side with Christian love, and strict principles of duty were applied to the most generous schemes of good. For ten years his intercourse has been mutually respectful, kind and genial. No difference of views prevented his sympathy nor abridged his liberality. To work for poor children was the passport to his regard and to save those whom God would wish to save from poverty, ignorance and sin, was a confession of faith which he respected. That he has gone to scenes of a higher activity and development, and greater happiness we know, and while we cannot but feel that the poor children have lost a friend and we a valued counselor, the thought of his gain enabled us to offer our sympathy to his family with confidence, that they in their better knowledge of him leave ample sources of consolation than any which we could suggest.

The Annual Strawberry Exhibition.

This exhibition, organized at the Agricultural Rooms, No. 41 Park-row, opened on the 18th inst. with a large display of choice fruits. Those who attended the exhibition a year ago cannot fail to observe the immense progress that twelve months have made in the development of this fine berry. Four large tables are spread, and each table contains specimens exceeding in number and quality the entire exhibition of berries made by the Royal Horticultural Society at London, last year. This we are assured by a competent amateur who witnessed both exhibitions.

We cannot give the awards in detail, but content ourselves with stating that about twenty prizes have been distributed, and that the old public favorites, Wilson's Seedling, Hovey's Seedling, Empress Eugenie, Union and Triomphe de Grand appear in their usual excellence and magnitude, and have borne off their share of honors. Among cultivators Wm. F. Heins, of Morrisania; L. M. Pease, of New-York Farm (Five Points) School; Seth Boyden, of Newark, N. J.; E. Marshall, of Poughkeepsie; A. S. Fuller, of Brooklyn; F. W. Devoe, of Fordham; E. Williams, of Mt. Clair, N. J., and S. R. Trembly, of Bergen Point, N. J., took the first honors. Mr. Marshall's Empress Eugenie, Mr. Pease's Triomphe de Grand, Wilson's Seedling and Mr. Trembly's Union were particularly noticeable.

But the triumph of the exhibition, by all odds, lay with Mr. BOYDEN, the distinguished iron manufacturer, of Newark, who offered a new variety, the largest ever placed on exhibition, and as remarkable for the delicacy of its flavor as its size. Fifteen of these berries weighed a pound. Few persons would wish to eat a pound, or even a half pound, of strawberries at a sitting, and one can hardly resist the conclusion, while looking at these prodigious berries, that the time will come when he will order six or nine, as the case may be, at his restaurant, and when the heroine of future novels will not be able to finish, for very fullness, her strawberry and cream.

The noticeable and encouraging fact in regard to the origination of this berry is that it did not come by chance, but is the result of science applied to the propagation of plants. Two of the finest strawberries of the day, Kirtley's Goliah and Hovey's Seedling, a perfect and a pistillate, were crossed, and a new berry—the Green Prolific—produced. Then this Green Prolific was crossed with Peabody's Seedling, the finest strawberry of the South, orginating in North Carolina. The product is Boyden's berry, which Mr. BOYDEN has named the "Agriculturist" Strawberry, from the fact that Mr. O. JUDD, proprietor of the Agriculturist newspaper, has purchased his every plant of this variety, and the entire increase of the same, for distribution gratis to the subscribers to his journal.

The exhibition, No. 41 Park-row, will continue during this day, and should be visited by every amateur grower or eater of strawberries, who can appreciate the luxury of such a spectacle.

The Police Among the Strikers.

At an early hour yesterday morning, Capt. WARLOW, of the First Precinct, received instructions from Police Headquarters, directing him to take a sufficient number of his reserve force, and repair to the neighborhood of Pier No. 8 East River, foot of Coentiesslip, where, from indications, it was believed that a serious riot would occur, unless the strong arm of the law was interposed. As our readers are aware, there has existed for some time past much trouble and dissatisfaction among the laborers employed by the New-York and Erie Railroad Company, who have been engaged in loading and unloading the Company's barges lying along the piers in that portion of the City. Mr. ALLEN, the agent of the Company, informs us that for several years past they have steadily employed the men, who have now tried to create the trouble. These laborers have, to a great extent, owing to their long experience in the business, for months past controlled that kind of work, and the Company saw they must either accede to the demands of these laborers or suffer a stoppage of their freighting. The Directors of the Company at last resolved to rid themselves of that class of men, and when, a few weeks ago they raised the wages of the workmen to $2 per day, they concluded to employ none of the old hands. The latter were greatly exasperated at this turn of affairs, and by threats and other hostile demonstrations they tried to deter the new employes from going on with their labor. At about 7 o'clock yesterday morning, one of the new men was seized by a gang of the discharged laborers, and severely beaten about the head and face. But for the timely interference of Capt. WARLOW's men, it is thought he would have been killed. Roundsman CONNER, with the aid of other officers, succeeded in quelling the disturbance and in taking into custody PATRICK MALOY and PATRICK KEIRNS, two of the ringleaders of the attacking party. The prisoners were taken before Justice CONNOLLY at the Tombs and committed in default of bail.

A Deadly Assault upon a Policeman.

ANDREW GEOGHEGAN, a policeman of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, was returning from his post to the Station-house on Thursday evening, about 8 o'clock, when he was suddenly attacked by a band of four or five rowdies in Second-avenue. Without any provocation, one of the assailants struck the victim on the head with a slung-shot, and knocked him down. Another of the gang stabbed him in the forehead with a dirk-knife while he lay prostrate. GEOGHEGAN was so much injured that he was insensible for some time, and before any assistance could be procured, the persons who made the attack had effected their escape. The wounded officer was conveyed to his residence on the corner of Thirty-ninth-street and Second-avenue. Dr. HODGEMAN was called, and, after an examination, he pronounced the injuries to be of a very serious nature. He advised that the Coroner be notified immediately to hold an ante-mortem examination. The skull is badly fractured, and he has also sustained other wounds, which his physician fears will prove fatal. GEOGHEGAN is about 24 years of age, and has been connected with the Police Department for the last four years. He has always borne a good reputation as an officer and a citizen, and has the confidence and esteem of all who know him. Capt. SPEIGHT, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, has interested himself in the case, and, with the men of his force, is doing everything he can to bring the guilty parties to punishment.

Ferris Female Institute.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT AT THE SEMINARY.

The Ferris Female Institute held its annual commencement in the Seminary, Madison-avenue, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The attendance was large and respectable, and consisted principally of ladies. In the drawing-room were a large number of beautiful specimens of needle, crochet and embroidery work, penmanship, crayons, and drawing, by the young misses of the Institute. Among those present were Chancellor FERRIS, Rev. H. CROSBY, Rev. Mr. DEMOREST and others. The pupils, attired in white, presented a handsome appearance, and occupied seats near the speaker's desk. The exercises were opened by the hymn:

Heavenly Redeemer, thou hast bought us,
Cleanse us from guilt, we humbly implore,

—the singing being under the direction of Prof. MILLER, after which Chancellor FERRIS offered an appropriate prayer. Reports of the Committees on the compositions of the Academic and Collegiate Departments, and in penmanship, French, needle-work, drawing and mathematics, were then read, which referred to the progress of the ladies in eulogistic terms. The usual awards were subsequently distributed. Chancellor FERRIS delivered an appropriate address, which was followed by all present singing the Doxology. The Benediction was then pronounced, which closed the exercises.

Waterbury, Jennie Halstead, Sara Viele, Mary Davey, Fannie Platt, Henrietta W. Wright. After which they were addressed by Principal C. H. GARDNER. Rev. Dr. GILLETTE presided. THE LAST PASSAGE OF THE RAPPAHANNOCK.—A typographical error gave the Twenty-sixth New-York, instead of the Twenty-sixth New-Jersey, the credit of crossing the Rappahannock in company with the Fifth Vermont, when the last passage of the river was effected by the Sixth Corps. The Twenty-sixth New-Jersey led the charge, and was closely followed by the Fifth Vermont. Lieut.-Col. MARTINDALE commanded the former regiment at the time, as Col. MORRISON was still under arrest.

FRIDAY, June 19—P. M.

The price of Money to the Stock Brokers, who are at present the chief borrowers, continues firm at 7 ℘ cent. per annum. The demand to-day was active, and in some quarters reported pressing. But on inquiry after 2 o'clock we found the general feeling among borrowers rather better than yesterday. And at the Second Board there was an improved disposition to buy Stocks for cash. We hear frequent expressions of surprise that Money, in its present shape of a Government paper Circulation, should become either scarce or comparatively dear to any class of borrowers who have fair security to offer—especially while this Circulation is held in so much cheaper estimation in the market than Gold Coin, which, as a currency, it has displaced. Perhaps the solution will be found in the facts, first, that the extreme volume of circulation, four hundred millions, authorized by the several acts of Congress, has now been reached; secondly, that this maximum no more than fairly represents the increased business of the country, now and since the war, transacted chiefly for ready Money, including heavy periodical disbursements in small denominations of greenbacks to the army that return slowly to the commercial centres; and thirdly, that the real estimation in which this circulation is held by the people, and even hoarded by them, as the safest current representative of their surplus and increasing means, is much higher than the relative market estimation of Gold would indicate. In other words, the present premium on Gold Coin is not justified by either the redundancy or credit among the masses of U. S. Notes of lawful tender.

If to the above general reasons for the return of the price of Money to the old legal rate of 7 ℘ cent., may be added the immediate or particular causes that combine to direct the conversion of U. S. Currency into a Government Stock, free from taxation, and paying its interest unfailingly in Gold, and therefore the cheapest of all first-class investments, as well as the very highest in point of public credit. These causes are first, that most of the State Securities and nearly all the Railway and Real Estate mortgages of the country, paying 6@7 ℘ cent. in currency and liable to taxation, are rating relatively higher in the market than this Stock; and secondly, that the purchase of the latter, by voluntary conversion of U. S. Notes of legal tender, at par, will cease on the 30th inst. An incidental result of this movement is, that the Treasury office is kept supplied with Money in advance of its current disbursements, and although a balance of twenty-five millions in greenbacks in New-York would not have been regarded as extravagant, or even out of the ordinary course, a few months ago, while the National circulation was being increased to its authorized limit of four hundred millions, the effect is different on the Money market now that this maximum has been reached. Practically the result of an extra accumulation of United States Notes in the Treasury is the same to our City Banks in shaping their Loans and Discounts, as a similar accumulation in Gold Coin in former years. They settle their daily balances between each other at the Clearing-House in United States Notes, to the extent of their holdings, and where these fall short they are required to surrender, in settlement, 5 ℘ cent. Certificates of Deposit on the Treasury, of the old issue, the interest on which is paid in Gold.

There was another fall of 1 ℘ cent. on Gold Coin to-day, and 1@1½ ℘ cent. on Exchange. The rate on London, this afternoon, is 156 ℘ cent., with Gold at 143@143½ ℘ cent. The purchases of United States 6 ℘ cent. Stock of 1882, provided for at the Treasury office to-day, amount to $1,460,250, of which 1,186,700 through the Loan Agency, and $273,550 by subscription direct. To-day the disbursements of the Treasury are $540,000 in excess of all receipts, and, in addition to this help to the street, we learn that some considerable sums of United States Notes are coming forward from the West. The Street demand for Money to carry Gold Coin, in the absence of an export demand to sustain the speculation above 140 ℘ cent., is, if anything, more pressing (and at 7 ℘ cent.) than from the Stock Brokers.

The Stock Exchange was fairly active to-day. The excitement was unusually lively on Hudson River shares against which some heavy short sales have recently been made, while the stock was on the decline from 135 down to 118½ ℘ cent. The largest of these contracts on time were made after the price fell below 125 ℘ cent., and when the cash stock, in consequence of the demand for Money, appeared to have the least support. To-day the turn was sharply in the opposite direction, and the bidding went up rapidly from 119 to 124½ ℘ cent. The Bull party who bought yesterday and early this morning then came in as sellers and supplied the cash demand to the extent of several thousand shares, and the price left off about 122½ ℘ cent. The Bear interest have also been operating against the same party in Pacific Mail, and had the market pretty much their own way yesterday and to-day, but to what ultimate profit remains of course to be seen. The movement appears to be not so much against the Stock, which continues to pay its 20 ℘ cent. dividends, as against the leading holders of Hudson and Pacific, who carried the former from 95 to 140, and the latter from 125 to 196 ℘ cent. through the Spring months. There was renewed interest in Harlem old shares, the decline being to all appearances arrested at 78@78½ ℘ cent. The Broker of the old party in the Stock bid 78 ℘ cent. this morning for any part of 5,000 shares, seller 30 days. The other New-York Roads were a fraction lower than yesterday, and most of the Western list was also pressed for cash early in the day. At 4 o'clock the following prices were made as compared with last night, the general market closing steady:

Wool in the Interior.

The Cleveland (Ohio) Plaindealer, June 17, says: "The condition of the Wool market is unchanged. Buyers offer prices ranging from 50c. to 65c., and obtain now and then a small lot, but holders are almost unanimous in their opinion that these rates are too low, and that buyers will be obliged to raise them in order to obtain the new clip. While we are far from sharing the views of those who imagine that Wool is worth $1 a pound, and is kept down by a combination, we still see no harm in growers being in no hurry to sell, and holding their clip a few weeks longer, until prices become more settled. There does not, however, seem to be very much anxiety on the part of buyers to purchase, as is usual at the opening of the market, and this is accounted for by the fact that there are so many contingencies involved, that what the price of Wool may be two or three months hence is merely a matter of opinion. Wool growers may, meanwhile, rest assured that no neighborhood meetings or sets of resolutions will have any effect in fixing the price of this staple, which is regulated by the great laws of supply and demand."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

According to our dispatches from Harrisburgh this morning, the rebel cavalry under JENKINS has been succeeded by that under MOSEBY in the vicinity of Chambersburgh. MOSEBY was reported eight miles below that town yesterday morning. A body of rebel cavalry, probably part of JENKINS' force, which left Greencastle, in the direction of Mercersburgh, on Thursday, were at McConnellsburgh yesterday morning, and took the road toward Hancock, Md. They were on a horse and cattle stealing expedition. On the line of the Potomac there is much activity. A force of three hundred rebels were driven away from Hancock on Thursday, after burning some canal-boats there. Seven hundred rebels on the same day attempted to destroy a large culvert opposite Hancock, but they were driven back by a body of our cavalry, under Col. GALLAGHER, after an hour's fight. It was reported that a force of ten thousand rebels was at Cumberland, Md., on Thursday. On the Virginia side, at Williamsport, yesterday, was a considerable body of rebel infantry, and another rebel force was said to be near Antietam or Shepherdstown, and about to cross the river.

Our special correspondent at Harrisburgh telegraphs that the rebels are no nearer Chambersburgh than Greencastle. A squadron of cavalry, and the Eighth and Seventy-first New-York regiments, left yesterday, by rail, for Chambersburgh, from which point they were to move on to Greencastle to dislodge the enemy there. The Twenty-second and Twenty-fifth New-York regiments were sent across the Susquehanna to take the places in the fortifications vacated by the Eighth and Seventy-first.

Gov. CURTIN yesterday visited Camp Curtin, at Harrisburgh, and was received with much enthusiasm by the troops there. He made an address in response to their urgent calls, in which he gave them assurances that their services would only be required during the present emergency. The men would be mustered into the United States service, but that was necessary to secure equipments and pay from the General Government. No apprehensions need be felt that they would be retained in the service beyond the time when the danger of invasion should be past. The Governor also reviewed the New-York regiments on the south side of the Susquehanna in the morning.

Our special correspondence from the Army of the Potomac is to the 17th. Gen. HOOKER was moving with the greatest rapidity, and everything indicated a collision with the enemy in a short time. The army was in the lightest marching order—everything which could impede progress having been sent to the rear.

We have, from one of our special correspondents, a spirited account of the cavalry battle at Aldie on Thursday. It proves to have been one of the most hotly contested fights of the war. The rebels were in strong position and superior numbers, and had the further advantage of artillery; but, notwithstanding all this, they were handsomely whipped, with heavy losses.

Deserters from LEE's army, who have come within our lines, state that the main body of STUART's cavalry force, twelve thousand strong, is at Warrenton; and that LEE's army is massed in the Shenandoah Valley, near Front Royal, or somewhere between that point and Winchester. They also state that the whole rebel army is preparing to march, and will probably try to turn HOOKER's right flank and cross into Maryland.

The Washington Republican says that in the late movement of Gen. HOOKER's army from its base at Aquia Creek and Falmouth, great credit is due to the officers of the Commissary and Quartermaster's Departments for the masterly manner in which their duties were performed. Not a dollar's worth of portable property belonging to the Government was left behind or destroyed. One and a half millions of army rations were brought away in good order. All the rolling stock of the railroad was carried off, and even the windows and doors of the temporary buildings erected for the use of officers were saved and transported to this city. Never before has our army executed a movement of the kind without sacrificing a great quantity of stores.

A letter to the Chicago Journal, dated near Vicksburgh, June 11, makes the important statement that water battery No. 1, the one which sunk the gun-boat Cincinnatti, about two weeks since, and which has caused a great deal of annoyance to the extreme right wing of the army, was on Tuesday night evacuated, and the guns removed. Our pickets were posted almost upon the battery on the night of its removal, and nothing but the simplicity of the guards in not notifying their commanders of the operations of the enemy, prevented the ordnance of said battery falling into our hands. The divisions of Gens. SMITH and HERRON, the former from Tennessee and the latter from Missouri, had reached Gen. GRANT. Judge LOWE, of Keokuk, Iowa, on June 10th had an interview with Gen. GRANT, who, in reply to a question when Vicksburgh would be taken, replied: "I can take it any hour; but in making an immediate attack I would sacrifice the lives of many valuable men, whereas there is not in my estimation, any occasion for such a sacrifice. The enemy is completely surrounded, and are short of both provisions and ammunition. They are losing from eighty to one hundred every day by desertion, and I am not at all apprehensive of the results consequent upon an attack in my rear. My force is adequate either to whip the rebels by force of arms or by starvation. I prefer the latter course, inasmuch as it demoralizes their army and does not decimate mine."

A dispatch to the Chicago Tribune reports that about June 7 the steamer Lady Walton, in charge of her captain and six men, came out of the Arkansas River and surrendered to our gunboat Tyler. The crew report no fortifications except near Pine Bluff. Provisions plenty, and PRICE's army moving southward.

An important order relative to the organization of the New-York State Militia was issued yesterday by Gov. SEYMOUR. It provides for the formation of a separate regiment or battalion for each Assembly District, and constitutes each Senatorial District a Brigade district. The details of the order will be found elsewhere.

FROM EUROPE.

We have advices from Europe four days later, by the arrival off Cape Race of the steamship Bohemian. She left Liverpool on the 11th, and Londonderry on the 12th inst. The American ship Kate Dyer, from Callao, had arrived at Antwerp. She reported having been overhauled by a rebel privateer, and compelled to give bonds for $50,000. The privateer is supposed to have been the bark Lapwing, recently captured by the Florida. The new steamer Southerner, recently launched at Stockton-on-Tees, had made her trial trip, and was subsequently searched by the Government authorities, under the supposition that she was intended for a privateer. Nothing suspicious was found on board, however. Parliamentary proceedings were without importance. There is nothing new regarding the Polish question. There had been a decline in the Liverpool Cotton market, consequent upon the news of Gen. GRANT's victories. Breadstuffs had a downward tendency, and Provisions were flat. Consols were quoted at 91¾.

GENERAL NEWS.

Hon. GEORGE W. JONES, Ex-United States Senator from Iowa, and Minister to New-Granada under the last Administration, has brought an action in the Supreme Court against Secretary SEWARD, laying his damages at $50,000, to recover for his arrest upon his arrival in this City, on his return to the United States, the particulars of which will be remembered. The complaint is just filed, and the case is as yet unknown to the Courts.

A complaint is also just filed in the same Court against JAMES GORDON BENNETT, of the Herald, by JOHN H. MOORE, General Agent in this City of the New-York Central Railroad Company, to recover for an alleged libel in the publication, a few days since, of a letter from the widow of the late Col. KIMBALL, in which severe reference was made to the plaintiff. An order of arrest has been issued.

In the Court of Sessions yesterday, ARTHUR CAR was convicted of picking the pocket of JAS. H. SMITH of $100, and remanded for sentence. EDWARD FORD pleaded guilty to passing a $5 counterfeit note of the Bank of Coxsackie, and was remanded.

There were rumors circulating on the streets in Nashville, on Monday, that Gen. FORREST had been shot and killed by a Lieutenant in his command, at Spring Hill, on Friday evening, the 12th inst. It was reported that FORREST had accused the Lieutenant of cowardice on some occasion, to which the latter replied very tartly, when FORREST ordered him out of the room, and at the same time giving him a kick to help him out, whereupon the Lieutenant drew his pistol and fired at FORREST, the ball entering his neck, and, the latest reports say, producing a pretty severe, though not dangerous wound. This last version was reported as coming from parties who had faith in its reliability.

The owners of the ship Crown Point, recently burned by the Alabama, had the following insurance (war risks) on the vessel and freight money: At Newburyport office, $9,000; Salem, $6,000; Alliance, Boston, $10,800; New-England, $22,500; Manufacturers', $16,700; Columbia, New-York, $15,000. Total, $80,000.

The price of Gold Coin fell 1 ₩ cent. yesterday, closing 143; Exchange 156 ₩ cent. Money in demand at 7 ₩ cent. The sales of the Government Loan were $1,460,000. The Share market excited on Hudson River Stock and closed otherwise steady.

Breadstuffs were more freely offered, yesterday, at a further general reduction in prices, yet transactions were restricted. Cotton, Whiskey, Tallow, and the leading kinds of Provisions were in active request at essentially unchanged rates. Hay was in fair demand. Oils were selling more freely. Groceries were quite moderately dealt in, as were also most other articles. The semi-weekly auction sales of Boots and Shoes was a decided success. The freight engagements were rather more extensive.

A MILITARY MUDDLE.—The curiously "mixed" condition of our military system, and the inefficiency resulting therefrom, has just had a striking illustration in Pennsylvania. When the first news of the projected invasion reached that State, Gen. COUCH, who had just been appointed to the command of the Department of the Susquehanna, summoned to arms, for the defence of the State, all citizens between the ages of 18 and 60, "to serve during the pleasure of the President or the continuance of the war." When the danger was more imminent, came the order of the Governor calling out the militia. When the rebels were actually on Pennsylvania soil, came the proclamation of the President, calling for one hundred thousand men, fifty thousand of whom were assigned as the quota of the Keystone State, "to be mustered into service, and to serve for the period of six months." The Pennsylvanians, however, did not like the terms or conditions of any of these calls, and did not fly to their rifles as promptly as was proper. Then Gov. CURTIN, spurred by the news that the rebels were advancing toward his capital, to adopt any expedient to save it, issued an address and also delivered an earnest personal appeal to the people to volunteer—in the former of which he said he would "accept men without reference to the six months' term," and that it "never was intended to keep them beyond the continuance of the emergency;" and imploring the people to trust in his and the Government's words.

No wonder that under such a state of things the "military" of Pennsylvania are all in a muddle—no wonder there is "confusion worse confounded." After two years of war, a Border State like Pennsylvania ought to have had a better system of local defence than this, or the Government ought to have provided her with a better defence.

THE EXCELSIOR STATE.—On Monday the people of this City were startled by the news of the northward advance of the rebels, of which no one had dreamed up to that time. On the evening of that day the Governor of the State received a telegram from Washington calling for twenty thousand militia to resist invasion, which order was promulgated next morning. The militia regiments, composed of citizens engaged in all pursuits, merchants, workmen, mechanics and professional men, instantly prepared themselves to march. Wednesday they began to leave, the Seventh leading the van, and up to last night eight regiments had left this City and Brooklyn. We learn from Albany that ten regiments altogether have left the State, and that four more will have left by this morning. New-York's twenty thousand will very soon be in the field; and if ten times twenty thousand were needed to put down the rebellion and save the Union, the Empire State would furnish them with alacrity. Who will say that the North is exhausted?

Military Partisanship.

Our Board of Councilmen have adopted a resolution urging upon the Administration the restoration of Gen. McCLELLAN to the chief command of the Army of the Potomac. Some of our most influential German citizens, on the other hand, have solicited the President to allow Gen. FREMONT to raise an independent force to aid in beating back LEE's rebel columns. These are but the latest manifestations of the persistent endeavor, in different directions, to push the fortunes of these two Generals. It seems to be the chief study of two distinct fractions of our people how to rehabilitate their respective favorites. They seize upon every occasion, and resort to every device, for the furtherance of their own particular end. They estimate every new development of the war primarily by its bearings, not upon the fortunes of the cause, but upon the fortunes of Gen. McCLELLAN and Gen. FREMONT. To judge by the habitual language of some of them, it would seem that their highest idea of the war was that it was a scene expressly for the benefit of their own hero; and that the whole performance was weary and flat so long as he was in the background.

What makes this the more curious is, that the partisans of each profess to have the most thorough contempt for the claims of the other. The admirer of McCLELLAN uniformly declares that FREMONT has no science; and the admirer of FREMONT is equally constant in his assertion that McCLELLAN has no spirit. Each claims, and with a good deal of truth, that his favorite excels in that in which the other General is deficient; while both alike seem unmindful that it is neither science alone, nor spirit alone, that is required in such a war as we are waging, but the perfect combination of the two.

We are bound, in fairness, to say that the claims made for these Generals are not precisely alike. The friends of McCLELLAN insist upon his being accorded Gen. HOOKER's place, or Gen. HALLECK's. The friends of FREMONT content themselves with demanding any high position that will involve active and conspicuous duty. While the former seem to think that it will be derogatory to McCLELLAN to serve his country in any but the very foremost place, the latter are quite willing that FREMONT should render service in any one of a dozen different places. It is chieftainship that is demanded for the one; an opening rather that is claimed for the other. The persistency in each case is alike; the only difference is in pitch of pretension.

Now, what is the meaning of this unceasing restlessness in regard to these two men? How happens it that they, alone of all the Generals out of service or in service, should have a retinue of civilians at their heels, who make it their special business to obtrude them incessantly upon the public eye? The explanation, of course, is simple enough. The patent fact that the one set belong exclusively to the extreme of one political party, and the other set to the extreme of another political party, is in itself absolute proof that it proceeds first of all from political motives. Such an assimilation of party affinities with particular personal attachments cannot come from accident. It is because there is a real relation between the party and the person that the one lends itself with such zeal to the advancement of the other. There is not only the uniform party complexion of the friends of each to assure us of this, but his own notorious political predilections. Gen. McCLELLAN, everybody understands, is a Democrat of ultra stamp—so extreme that his fastest friends are found among the Copperheads. It was a grave question, in the half-traitorous Convention at Columbus the other day, whether to nominate him or VALLANDIGHAM; and it was settled only by his withdrawal from the contest. Gen. FREMONT, on the other hand, is a radical Republican, and never fails in any of his public speeches to indicate his intense Anti-Slavery policy in the most emphatic style. Both of these two Generals, by their words and acts, have thoroughly identified themselves with their respective parties. It is because thorough-going partisans recognize in them the exponents of their own opinions, and because they seek to promote party interests rather than the public interests, that they are so tireless in their efforts to get them again into military position. Next year brings on a new Presidential election. It is recognized that military prestige may be an important consideration in the selection of candidates and their availability with the people. Therefore it is but natural that those whose first care is their party, should do their utmost to secure every military opportunity possible for the Generals of their own faith who are politically ambitious.

The Government is to be commended for having thus far so steadfastly refused to be swayed by efforts prompted by such a purpose. It has no right, in this awful military struggle for the life of the nation, to be influenced in its choice of Generals by anything but military considerations. It is bound to recognize no political distinctions—to know neither Republicans nor Democrats—and to put the military responsibilities upon the men best qualified to discharge them successfully. One indispensable qualification for such discharge is singleness of purpose. The commander whose mind is in any measure occupied with his political interests, is to a great extent disqualified from fully meeting his military duties, which, at the very least, are momentous enough to engross every faculty of any mind, however capable. Whatever be the other merits of the four leading Generals, now in active service—GRANT, ROSECRANS, BANKS and HOOKER—they all undeniably are entitled to the praise of ignoring all party manœuvres, and devoting themselves with their whole soul to the military work in hand. It is a eulogy for each that none of them have a political following; and that, shameless as the party intrigue of the day is, it has not yet ventured to degrade their names into its service. The Government is fortunate in having Commanding Generals so thoroughly pervaded with the true military spirit. The great danger to the National cause from the beginning has been not from the want of military talent, for that was sure to develop itself sooner or later, but from the adulteration of a pure military policy with political elements which would take away all its consistency and vigor. The best safeguard against this was the bestowment of command upon Generals without political aspirations, and who, during their term of service, should practically keep their politics in abeyance. We are glad that this is now in such a good degree realized. If the Administration will keep true to this aim, it cannot fail of being sustained by the great majority of the people, if it be true, as we believe, that the majority prefer country to party.

The Confederacy on Foreign Relations.

It was published a short time since that the rebel Government at Richmond had dismissed Mr. MOORE, British Consul at that city. It was not then known that an act, originating in the alleged personal misconduct of the Consul, was made the occasion of a general change of policy on the part of the Confederate Government, toward the representatives of foreign Powers. Such is the case. And the letter which we published yesterday, from J. P. BENJAMIN, rebel Secretary of State, to J. M. MASON, rebel Commissioner at London, furnishes an interesting history of the offence of Mr. MOORE, and of the orders that have been the consequence of his conduct.

It appears that two men, named MALONEY and FARRELL, were conscripted in the rebel army, and Mr. MOORE was applied to by their counsel to procure their release, on the ground that they were British subjects. The Consul, to avoid the difficulty which prevented his corresponding with the Confederate State Department, addressed himself directly to the War Department, in behalf of the parties. On investigation it was found that MALONEY and FARRELL, though British born, had resided in Virginia for eight years and had exercised the right of suffrage by voting in that State. These facts were held to be conclusive as to the de facto citizenship of the men, and the War Department refused to release them. Mr. MOORE was much offended by this determination of the case, and had the temerity to charge the Confederate Government to one of its own citizens, the counsel of MALONEY and FARRELL, with being indifferent to "cases of the most atrocious cruelty." For this language of disrespect, his exequatur was revoked, and Mr. MOORE took the earliest opportunity to leave Richmond.

Mr. BENJAMIN makes the dismissal of Mr. MOORE the occasion of explaining upon what grounds the presence of Consuls in the Southern States, originally credited to the United States, have been tolerated in the performance of their official functions by the Confederate Government. The argument is a characteristic specimen of State rights abstractionism, and is as follows: A Consul at Richmond is a Consul in and for the State of Virginia:—Virginia, at the formation of the Federal Union, delegated to the United States Government the right of regulating her (Virginia's) foreign intercourse:—hence the United States Government furnished Mr. MOORE his exequatur:—Virginia subsequently seceded from the United States, withdrew the power delegated to it of controlling her foreign relations, and bestowed the same on the Confederate Government:—but the withdrawal of power from an agent does not nullify the agent's previous acts, and hence Mr. MOORE was a proper Consul for Virginia after her secession, notwithstanding the fact that his exequatur was held from the United States. And so of all other Consuls.

But foreign Ministers at Washington "abused" the tolerant conduct of the Confederate Government in this regard, in this, that in virtue of their relations to and recognition by the Government of the United States, they have assumed the power to issue instructions and exercise authority over the Consuls residing in the South in total disregard of the existence of the Confederate Government. Lord LYONS has especially been an offender in this way, (as his frequent communications to Mr. MOORE and other British Consuls sufficiently attest,) and hence the British Government is selected for repoof in the dismissal of her consular agent. And the general order is issued by JEFFERSON DAVIS that "no direct communication be permitted between the Consuls of neutral nations in the Confederacy and the functionaries of those nations residing within the enemy's country," [the United States.] All communications to or from foreign Consuls residing in the Confederacy will be restricted to vessels arriving from or dispatched for foreign parts.

The act of dismissal of Mr. MOORE is accompanied by one or two sharp thrusts at the British Government, which will receive additional harshness from the ill-temper of the often snubbed Mr. Commissioner MASON. That Government is chided for refusing, "for its own interest," to acknowledge the "patent fact" of the independence of the South; and it is twitted with the fact of an increasing foreign trade to all parts of the South, "in spite of the paper blockade which is upheld by Her Majesty's Government, in disregard of the rights of the Confederacy, the dictates of public law," &c., &c.

We have no comment to offer on this affair, further than to suggest that the crisis in rebel diplomacy is not a very serious one, and that a war with England will not probably grow out of it. The United States Government will certainly offer no objection to the driving out of every Consul in the South, every one of whom, without an exception, we believe, has proved himself, when opportunity offered, a rebel sympathizer and a mischief-maker.

They have all been very freely used by JEFF DAVIS to gather up statistics in support of the rebellion, to fortify the Cotton loan and prove the inefficiency of the blockade, and the Confederate Government has been more than glad to make use of the easy and safe communication of these Consuls with Lord LYONS and other foreign Ministers at Washington for the purpose of getting these fictions before the "neutral nations." It is a just reward they are now getting for their superserviceable zeal in the cause of a set of ungrateful traitors.

Strategy of the Young Napoleons.

The street-corner and fireside strategists have a splendid field for their wits at present. The situation in Virginia is sufficiently complicated and indefinite to make strategical speculation delightfully easy and dismally profound. Nothing is known about the location of LEE's army, and little about HOOKER's. Nobody knows what LEE's plans are; and nobody can tell how HOOKER proposes to circumvent them. No one has any idea how large a force the rebels have at Richmond, or what means have been adopted for the defence of that place; and nobody knows whether or no KEYES, DIX, PECK & Co. have any designs against it. Furnished with this stock of ignorance, and armed with one of the awful "maps" with which our cotemporaries so frequently adorn their columns, it is easy for the strategist to show how HOOKER should operate against and defeat LEE—how KEYES should capture Richmond—and how HOOKER, by a grand coup, might smash the rebellion and end the war—marching into Washington with LEE in chains, antique fashion, and a hundred thousand rebel captives following in his rear.

Say, for instance, that LEE's army, ninety thousand strong, which the telegraph declares it to be, is located in the Shenandoah Valley, in the Loudon Valley, or by the Bull Run Mountain. Say that HOOKER has an army of equal number, and of as vigorous pluck, planted near Bull Run or at Fairfax Court-house, or still nearer to the Potomac. Say that HEINTZELMAN has an army around Washington amply sufficient to man its gigantic works and hold the Capital. Say that the forces of MILROY and SCHENCK, aided by the gathering hosts of the North, are capable of barring a rebel advance into Pennsylvania. What is to hinder Gen. HOOKER from pushing along his columns rapidly on this side of the mountains, so as to get in the rear of the rebel army and compel its retreat, and yet make its successful retreat impossible? Why does he not at least threaten LEE's rear continually, and keep him uneasy? Why does he not send a cavalry force down as far as Warrenton, to break up that highly important point of communication, or to Culpepper Court-house, where they have a grand depot of supplies? Why does he not—why did he or some one else not—occupy the mountain passes in the Blue Ridge and parallel ranges, which we have been so often told could be held by a small force against an army a hundred times its strength?

While HOOKER is thus menacing and operating against LEE's rear—HEINTZELMAN holding the Capital—and COUCH watching the Pennsylvania line—while the rebel army has been nearly all withdrawn from Richmond and from the Virginia and North Carolina seaboard, why do not our forces on the James Peninsula and the Blackwater, which are believed to be about forty thousand strong, more or less, make a grand assault on the rebel Capital? Why do not some of the officers with large commands, down there, do something? Why do not they demonstrate vigorously, while the golden moment lasts, and the grand rebel army is over a hundred miles away? If they cannot take Richmond, can they not take Petersburgh, which would serve the purpose nearly as well? If they are incapable of this, could they not seize Weldon, which would do better? There must be a limit to the rebel strength in Virginia; and if LEE has a hundred thousand men in the Shenandoah Valley or thereabouts, their forces cannot be very gigantic at other points. Certain it is that if forty thousand of our troops, or half that number, were at Weldon, LEE would not be long in leaving the mountains; and if he attempted to leave, then would be HOOKER's chance to flank him, divide his columns, and defeat them in detail.

It is believed that we have, or will have directly, full a quarter-million men on the Potomac. Within the last four days this State alone has sent ten thousand volunteers toward Washington, and other States are hastening forward their quotas under the new call. From a great army, suddenly reinforced so enormously, folks have a right to expect great and daring deeds. Certain it is that the rebel army has not been reinforced to anything like this extent, nor can it be.

The time when these great movements against LEE and Richmond are possible, may be short, for LEE may retreat, or he may suddenly push round to some point in our rear, where we might not be able to operate with all the advantages on our side which we now possess.

The fireside strategists are doubtless badly informed in the facts of the case; but their energy and spirit is at least commendable, and their skill might be of service in the field, if they would only take to it.

A SPLENDID EXCURSION.—In our advertising columns will be found a notice of a splendid excursion through the Western Lakes, from Cleveland, to be made by two very fine steamers during the coming Summer months. There will be five excursions in all, through the finest scenery in the world, and affording an opportunity for recreation and for picturesque scenery seldom equaled. The prices are very reasonable, the accommodations excellent, and the excursion in every respect of the most attractive and desirable ever offered.

A NOVELTY.—The latest novelty in the way of shirt-collars is a steel collar, invented in England, and for sale by the agent, WARD, No. 387 Broadway. They are easily washed, last forever, and don't choke. What will turn up next in this department, we wait with some curiosity to see.

THE BOHEMIAN OFF CAPE RACE.

The Ship Kate Dyer Captured and Bonded by a Rebel Pirate.

Proposed Reforms in France.

CAPE RACE, Friday, June 19.

Steamship Bohemian from Liverpool 11th, via Londonderry 12th, passed this point at noon to-day, and was boarded by the news yacht of the Associated Press.

The steamship City of Baltimore, from New-York arrived out on the 9th.

The steamship North American, from Quebec, arrived out on the 10th.

The steamship Borussia, from New-York, arrived at Cowes on the 12th inst.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Commons, Mr. CUNNINGHAM suggested the opening of negotiations with Washington for the suppression of the Slave-trade in the Southern States.

Lord PALMERSTON pointed out the difficulties, owing to the war, of any such negotiation. He hoped, if the Confederates gained their independence, they would make satisfactory arrangements.

The steamer Southerner, recently launched at Stockton-on-Tees had been making a trial trip. Among the company on board was a person who represented himself as a newspaper reporter. He turned out to be a spy, and he made an affidavit, tending to show that the steamer was intended for a Confederate cruiser. This affidavit was forwarded to Minister ADAMS, and was by him submitted to Earl RUSSELL, who ordered her to be searched. This search resulted in nothing to justify suspicion, and the steamer remained unseized. The alleged spy, however, continued to hover about West Hartpool where the steamer was lying. It is stated that the vessel is intended to trade between Liverpool and Charleston.

The Times' editorial on the American situation, says that for the first time in the war, a long narration of Federal victories has been substantially confirmed. The game, it is true, is by no means played out; but so far the expedition has been remarkably successful, and reflects unwonted lustre on the Federal arms. With a comparatively small army, Gen. GRANT has advanced toward Vicksburgh by a succession of victories at one point after another. This much is now established by the Confederates themselves. If GRANT cannot carry the long beleaguered city and its appropriate defences, he may pay for his opening successes by a disastrous, though not inglorious, close.

The American ship Kate Dyer, from Callao, arrived at Antwerp, was overhauled by a Confederate privateer and compelled to give bonds for $50,000. It is supposed that the privateer was the bark Lapwing, which was originally captured by the Florida.

Parliamentary proceedings are unimportant.

CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.

Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

"NEW-YORK, May 6.

I was entirely deaf in my left ear, accompanied by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obliterated, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.

THOMAS GRANAN, No. 539 6th-av."

"NEW-YORK, May 7, 1863.

I have great pleasure to testify to the skill of Dr. VON EISENBERG. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatsoever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unsurpassing skill.

SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-av., Greenpoint, L. I."

No. 136 MADISON-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 23 FORSYTH-ST., ROOM NO. 40, NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

DR. J. H. SCHENCK WILL BE AT HIS Principal Office, No. 32 Bond-st., New-York, every Tuesday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M., to give advice and examine Lungs with his Respirometer. He treats no diseases but those of the Lungs, Liver and Stomach, and makes no charge for advice or examining Lungs in the ordinary way, or as Physicians generally do; but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer, he charges $3, and wishes every one, rich or poor, that has a cough, pain in the side or shoulder blade, troubled with costiveness or diarrhœa, sallow complexion, loss of appetite, low spirits, restlessness at nights, or any disease leading to Consumption, to call on him as above, and get his advice.

The following case is one of the greatest triumphs of medicine over disease ever published in medical history. Read it:

Prompted by no other than the feeling of benevolence, and for the benefit of my afflicted fellow-beings, I desire to make known a short description of my disease, and the unexpected cure I obtained from Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. Upward of two years since, I was taken sick, which gradually increased, until I was so far reduced that I never expected to be well again. I had at different times the attendance of six eminent physicians, without receiving any benefit. In the month of February, 1844, I commenced using Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, and my disease at that time was as follows: I was extremely feeble, confined to my bed, suffering what few mortals ever do, and survive. My flesh had all disappeared, the whites of my eyes very yellow; skin also very yellow, like a person having the jaundice; very dry and husky. I had a dull, heavy pain in my right side near the margin of the ribs; this side was also larger than natural; pain in my shoulder, a sharp pain in my left side, which was smaller than natural; or, as I thought, decayed away. I had a very distressing pain at the pit of my stomach—tongue coated with a thick white fur—stomach very sour—appetite entirely gone, not being able to eat anything—bowels very irregular and costive—discharges very unnatural—fevers, night sweats, thirst violent, palpitation of the heart, slight, dry cough, pain in the breast, difficulty of breathing, dreadful dull headache. I was low-spirited, and often would have so bad spells that my father thought I was dying. I cannot describe, as I would like to do my miserable situation and my wretched sufferings, as every organ in my body was either diseased or deranged. My physicians said I had the Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and was fast hastening to the Consumption. This, as near as I can tell, was my situation when I commenced using the PULMONIC SYRUP. I found that the Syrup agreed with me, and it was the only medicine that ever gave me relief. It caused a large quantity of corruption to be discharged. It regulated my bowels; it relieved my sufferings—gave me an appetite; in short, the Pulmonic Syrup was the remedy, by the blessing of Providence, that restored me to health. In the month of April following, I was well enough to move from New-York City to West Farms, where I now reside. I enjoy at this time perfect health, and am fleshy, and feel better than I have done for many years past. This medicine has proved a blessing to myself and family; for I have used it with my children several times, and always with great benefit, and many other persons that I know of have used it with like effects. I keep the Syrup in my house, and would not be without it for any consideration; and I conscientiously believe it is the best medicine ever discovered, and I earnestly recommend the public to try it, believing, as I do, that if its virtue is once known, every family would keep it.

This is a plain, short history of my case, and is the truth; and any person desirous of further particulars can call upon me at the residence of my husband, Capt. Johnson, No. 12 North 3d-st., Williamsburgh.

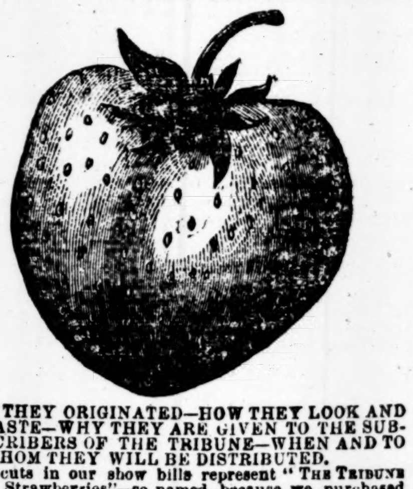
THE TRIBUNE PRIZE STRAWBERRIES.



HOW THEY ORIGINATED—HOW THEY LOOK AND TASTE—WHY THEY ARE GIVEN TO THE SUBSCRIBERS OF THE TRIBUNE—WHEN AND TO WHOM THEY WILL BE DISTRIBUTED.

The cuts in our show bills represent "THE TRIBUNE prize Strawberries"—so named because we purchased them, at a very large price, to bestow exclusively upon the subscribers of either edition of THE TRIBUNE for 1863, intending to send one of each kind to every subscriber who expresses a wish to that effect at the time of subscribing. This will be equal to a prize of $1 50 to each subscriber, as that is the price charged by nurserymen for similar plants. Indeed, neither of these prize strawberries could be obtained at any price whatever, as we have secured every plant that can be produced in the year 1863, exclusively, as prizes to our subscribers. We have incurred the large outlay necessary for this purpose, because we have an earnest desire to see the propagation of improved fruit greatly extended, and because we believe that every one who receives these plants and grows the fruit will hold THE TRIBUNE in kindly remembrance for enabling him to enjoy such a good gift of a kind Providence, and will thereafter feel an increased desire to improve all the list of fruits. It is thus that health and happiness will be increased.

As these plants have all to be grown from the few plants that we bought of Mr. Fuller in the Autumn of 1862, he will not be able to send them to subscribers until after the 1st of September, 1863, when they will be carefully packed in oiled silk or paper, and forwarded through the mail at our expense, or by express at expense of the receiver. The three plants will be sent to each person who sends to us a year's subscription for either the Daily, Semi-Weekly, or Weekly TRIBUNE, indicating at the time of subscribing that they desire the Strawberries, and the distribution will be made in the order the subscribers' names and requests for Strawberries are received.

Single subscribers will receive their plants by mail, done up in oiled silk or other suitable oiled substance.

To Clubs, plants will be sent in packages to correspond with the number of names in the Club; and, where the number will warrant it, they will be sent by express, packed in boxes.

New subscribers who desire strawberry plants should say so at the time they send their money, as we do not intend to send any to those who will not appreciate them. They are too valuable to be wasted. There are parties who would gladly contract for the exclusive right to all these plants, at 25 cents a piece, and there are many subscribers who would not, as soon as they see and taste the fruit, part with their prize for a $5 "greenback."

HOW THESE NEW STRAWBERRIES WERE PRODUCED.

The following statement is made by ANDREW S. FULLER, horticulturist, Brooklyn, the originator of these strawberries. He says:

"It is now between seven and eight years since I commenced sowing seeds of the strawberry for the purpose of producing new and improved varieties. I have always selected seeds from the largest and best that could be obtained, and the results were that I produced some few good varieties each season; yet they were not such as I was willing should go out as my seedlings. Every season I selected the seed with more care than I did the previous one, and found that I made constant improvement. I therefore determined that I would put forth extra exertions and see if a few extra choice varieties could not be produced. In 1859 I obtained the best varieties known, and by fertilizing the flowers one with another, I expected to produce strawberries combining greater excellence than heretofore known. In this I was not disappointed. I produced that year many thousands of seedling plants, and the fruit of many was really excellent, so much so that I was urged not to throw the plants away; but as excellence, and not variety, was my object, I destroyed all but the most promising. I determined from the first that no plant should go out as a seedling of mine unless it combined greater excellence than any other strawberry known. From the selections of that year a competent Committee from the Farmer's Club of the American Institute, who had the matter three years in charge, made a selection of three sorts, ripening early, medium and late, and these I preserved as the final result of my seven years laborious experiments to procure improvement in strawberries from seeds. These I intended to dispose of in the ordinary way of a nurseryman's business, and should have done so but for the desire of THE TRIBUNE Association to make a gratuitous distribution of these truly excellent strawberries to their subscribers. I have therefore contracted to furnish them exclusively for that purpose. Not one of them can be bought of me at any price. If I had kept them for sale to individuals the price would have been 50 cents each or $5 a dozen."

NAMES AND DESCRIPTIONS OF THE PRIZE STRAWBERRIES.

"The earliest ripening one was named Col. Ellsworth, in honor of the martyr who lost his life when Alexandria, Va., was first occupied by the Union army during the present war. It is a very large variety, of a crimson color, conical in shape, and, having slight depressions, running from calyx to point, resembling the sutures on the peach, with a long neck, and the calyx parts readily from the berry; quality good; flesh firm. Although the largest of the three, it is also the earliest, ripening at the same time as the Jenny Lind and Early Scarlet, and is very productive. The original plant, eighteen months from the time the seeds were sown, produced over 200 perfect berries, averaging from 1 inch to 1½ inches in diameter.

"The next ripening is called the MONITOR. It is very large, of a dark bright scarlet color, approaching a crimson in the sun. Berry very solid and firm, of fine quality; plants very vigorous and productive. This sort will become a great market fruit, the color and shape being very attractive.

"The third, from its color and origin, is called the BROOKLYN SCARLET. Although this variety is inferior in size to the other two, yet it possesses merits that will always make it a great favorite. Its shape is a regular oblong cone, color the most beautiful bright scarlet. Flavor, the very best. We have the unanimous decision of the judges at the great strawberry show the past season at No. 41 Park-row, New-York, on this point, as they awarded it the first premium over all its numerous competitors. The plant is a very strong and vigorous grower, making monstrous stools the first season, from which an enormous amount of fruit stalks are produced. Add to this its lateness, which assists so much in prolonging the season of this delicious fruit, and we have in this strawberry something as near perfection as possible, though not as large as the others. Yet this is not small, and among the sorts most cultivated, ranks medium to large."

The above descriptions by Mr. Fuller, in addition to all that we have already published, must be sufficient to satisfy all minds that we are offering no trifling prize to our subscribers, as an indication of our good will, and certainly with a hope of their continued good will to us.

Wm. S. Carpenter said in the Farmers' Club that the Wilson was extensively cultivated in this vicinity as a market fruit, and proved very profitable. Of all the strawberries that he has growing, he must continue to give preference to the Col. Ellsworth, one of Mr. Fuller's new seedlings, sold to THE TRIBUNE. The other two are also very fine, and a great acquisition.

The Col. Ellsworth and the Brooklyn Scarlet, exhibited by Mr. Fuller, took the prize for the best two quarts at the Brooklyn Horticultural Society Exhibition, June 16 and 17. Owing to an accident, the Monitors were not exhibited.

We have only to add that the colored prints given upon our show bills are as exact representations as can be given, and in no respect exaggerations of THE TRIBUNE PRIZE STRAWBERRIES.

The design of the Publishers of HARPER'S MAGAZINE from the outset has been to furnish a monthly periodical containing so large an amount of the best matter in every department of literature that it should be indispensable to the great mass of cultivated American readers. The constant favor with which the Magazine has been received shows that this design has been successfully accomplished. The copious Index to the first Twenty-six Volumes, now in course of preparation, will show that the following have been the leading features of the Magazine:

I. Historical and Biographical papers relating especially to events in American History.
II. Narratives of Voyages, Travels and Adventure.
III. Articles upon Natural History, Popular Science, Art and Industry.
IV. Sketches of Social Life and Individual Character.
V. Essays upon Social, Æsthetic and Political Subjects.
VI. Novels, Tales and Poems.
VII. A condensed Record of the Events of the Month.
VIII. Comments and Criticisms upon current topics of the time, at home and abroad.
IX. Anecdotes, Facetiæ and Humorous Incidents.
X. Illustrations of every subject where the Artist could aid or supplement the labors of the Writer.

These general features will be retained, and the Publishers pledge themselves that no labor or expense shall be spared to render the succeeding issues of the Magazine every way worthy of the favor with which their previous efforts have been amply rewarded.

The Twenty-six volumes of the Magazine contain matter equivalent to at least two hundred duodecimo volumes. Most of this is of permanent value. A complete set of the Magazine will therefore be a desirable acquisition to any private, public or school library. The Publishers will furnish these in sets, neatly bound in cloth, for One Dollar and Eighty-eight cents per volume—$48 88 for the whole, nett cash, the freight to be paid by the purchaser. The same amount of matter, with an equal number of illustrations, issued in ordinary volumes, would cost at least three hundred dollars. Any single volume will be sent by mail, post-paid, to any place in the United States within 1,500 miles from New-York, for two dollars and fifty cents; or any single number for twenty-five cents.

EXCISE TAX LAW,
BY
CHARLES F. ESTEE,
Late Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
1 vol., octavo, 355 pages.
Price, cloth, $1 50; sheep, $2.

"To lawyers and men of business generally this volume is a necessity, both for the fullness of its matter and the ease with which particular items can be referred to through the index. Of all the publications relating to the internal tax law this book appears to be the most complete, useful and reliable."—Boston Transcript.

"The official position held by the author not only gives authenticity to his work, but as it must have afforded to him every facility for its preparation, we may rely with confidence not only on the correctness of the text, but may presume that we have here every material fact in the shape of law or document necessary for the solution of the thousand and one questions every day arising in the interpretation of the tax acts."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

"This is the most complete work of the kind yet given to the public, clearly presented and arranged, so that the information can be easily reached."—Phila. Pub. Ledger.

"The last work upon such a subject as the Excise Law is usually the best; but Mr. Estee's book is not only in this view better than any other that has appeared upon that important statute, but it is the best one extant. * * * *"—Phila. Legal Intelligencer.

"* * * * This is by far the best book of its character yet published, and should be in the hands of every business man in the country. * * * * Every lawyer, manufacturer and merchant should possess one, and no library will be complete without a copy."—Chicago Dispatch and Price Current.

"* * A valuable collection for all assessors and collectors, besides business men and lawyers. The style of the volume is convenient—it is, in fact, the best issue of the kind."—Boston Post.

"This work is precisely the interpreter needed and desired by every intelligent man who wishes to conform to the requirements of the law and at the same time fully understand its provisions. The information hitherto gained has been fragmentary and unsatisfactory; this furnishes it complete. * * *"—Hartford Palladium.

"* * * This is by far the best book of its character yet published, and should be in the hands of every business man in the country. * * *"—Sing Sing Republican.

FAITH GARTNEY'S GIRLHOOD,
By the author of "Boys at Chequasset."
1 vol. 12mo., cloth. Price $1 75.

This story fills a void, long felt, for some book to give a young girl growing into womanhood. It is the simple record of a young girl's life, starting at fourteen—tracing, step by step, the development of a beautiful young soul, thirsting to achieve some great act of heroic goodness. In her own home she finds full scope for all the noble aspirations and struggles of a heart that does not fully understand its own wishes.

The doubts, fears, despair, and final joyous ending in the blissful fulfillment of every young girl's dream of earthly happiness are told in such touching, strong and tender language, that every young girl who reads it will be made wiser and better for all her life. Wherever it is read it will be retained as a thoughtful, suggestive—if silent—friend.

SCRANTON COAL AT AUCTION.

OFFICE OF THE DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA & WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY, No. 35 William-st.,
NEW-YORK, June 15, 1863.

This Company will hold their fifth regular monthly auction, on WEDNESDAY, the 24th day of June, 1863, at 12 o'clock noon, at the rooms now used as the Merchants' Exchange, Nos. 26 and 28 Exchange-place, corner William-st., at which time they will offer, by SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer, 30,000 TONS OF FRESH MINED SCRANTON COAL, embracing all the usual sizes, and deliverable at their depot, Elizabethport, N. J., after the 1st of July next. They will repeat such auction sales on or about the 20th of each month, during the year 1863.

The sale will be positive. Each lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder; no bids, in any form whatever, being made for account of, or on behalf of the Company.

Fifty cents per ton, in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance in like funds, on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within ten days thereafter, and the coal taken away within thirty days from the day of sale, unless navigation is obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional thirty days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of fifty cents per ton, within the ten days above specified. Interest, at 7 per cent. per annum, will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid; and twenty-five cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal—both to be paid on delivery of order.

The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. These conditions will be modified to meet the wants of ocean steamers, whose arrival cannot be definitely fixed.

Its route is along the White Water Valley, from Rushville to Union, a distance of about sixty miles, and passes through the richest, best cultivated and most densely populated portion of the State of Indiana.

The road is the CENTRAL SECTION of the otherwise completed TRUNK LINE, connecting the great Southwest at LOUISVILLE, Ky., on the Ohio River, and at an early day with TOLEDO and SANDUSKY, on Lake Erie.

The Company is wholly without debt (except its bonded debt) and being strong in its local traffic, and connecting with roads that must necessarily largely increase the volume of its revenues, the BOARD OF DIRECTORS, with great confidence, invite the attention of capitalists to these securities, believing that they offer an opportunity for a first-class railroad investment, than which, in their judgment, there is no better to be had.

The published exhibits of the Company, together with a map showing the locality and advantages of the Road, can be had from either of the Trustees of the Deed of Trust, in this City, named below, and from either of whom the bonds are only to be had.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

CITY INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT,
NEW-YORK, June 17, 1863.

By resolutions of the Common Council of the City of New-York, approved by His Honor the Mayor the City Inspector has resumed the duties of Street-cleaning. All the obstacles which have heretofore embarrassed the operations of this Department in that respect have now been removed, and the City Inspector has entered upon the prosecution of the work, including the removal of ashes and garbage, with the whole force at his disposal.

The residents of this City can materially aid and assist him in placing the streets in a thoroughly cleanly and healthy condition, and to that end he most earnestly calls their attention to the necessity of putting a stop to the following daily violations of the laws and ordinances, viz.:

First—The throwing of ashes, garbage and filth upon the streets.

Second—The habit of merchants, &c., in permitting straw, shavings, and other substances used in packing, to be cast upon the street or placed upon the sidewalk, from whence it is soon scattered over the street.

Third—The daily sweepings from stores and shops being thrown into the streets and gutters, instead of being placed into some receptacle to be taken away by the ash cartmen.

Fourth—The placing on the street, filth taken from yards and cellars, and rubbish and old material from the repairing of buildings.

Fifth—The throwing into the streets and gutters, noxious, impure and offensive liquids and substances.

The commission of any of the above acts is not only a direct violation of the laws and ordinances, subjecting the offender to arrest, fine and imprisonment, but greatly impedes and retards the keeping of clean streets, rendering the work difficult of successful operation, while largely increasing the expense.

Every effort will be made by the City Inspector to have the streets kept in a healthy and cleanly condition, and he earnestly and confidently hopes and looks for the coöperation and assistance of all classes of citizens in putting an end to the violations above enumerated.

A copy of the several ordinances referred to, will be left at each dwelling-house.

Ash carts will pass through the streets of the several Wards daily (Sundays excepted,) to collect ashes, garbage, &c., and the City Inspector desires that every neglect or misconduct on the part of the drivers of such carts or Street Inspectors may be complained of to him at his office, No. 19 Chatham-street, and it shall be promptly remedied.
DANIEL E. DELAVAN,
City Inspector.

B.—Those who may have been misled by quack advertisements, nostrums, &c., can call on Dr. J. with the certainty of receiving honorable treatment.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it, and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

And we hereby declare that neither of us have been defaulters in any contract previously made with the Navy Department.

Witness: (Signatures of guarantors.)

I certify that the above-named (here name the guarantors) are known to me to be good and responsible guarantors in this case, and that the above declarations of the guarantors to this offer are, to the best of my knowledge and belief, true and reliable. (Signature.)

To be signed by the District Judge, District-Attorney, Collector, Navy Agent, or some person known to the Bureau to be responsible.

The schedule will state the times within which articles will be required to be delivered; and where the printed schedule is not used, the periods stated in it for deliveries must be copied in the bids. All the articles which may be contracted for must be delivered at such place or places, including drayage or cartage to the place where used within the Navy-yards, respectively, for which the offer is made, as may be directed by the commanding officer thereof; and all other things being equal, preference will be given to American manufacture. No article will be received after the expiration of the period specified in the schedules for the completion of deliveries, unless specially authorized by the Department. In computing the classes, the price stated in the column of prices will be the standard, and the aggregate of the class will be carried out according to the prices stated.

All the articles under the contract must be of the best quality, delivered in good order, free of all and every charge or expense to the Government for delivery, and subject to the inspection, count, weight or measurement of the said Navy-yard, and be in all respects satisfactory to the Commandant thereof. Bidders are referred to the yard for plans, specifications or samples, and any further descriptions of the articles or explanations they may desire. When bidders shall be in doubt as to the precise articles named in the schedule, they will apply to the commanding officer of the Navy-yard and not to employes for description of the article or articles in doubt, which information the said officer will give in writing.

Approved sureties in the full amount of the contract will be required, and twenty per centum as additional security deducted from each payment until the contract shall have been completed or canceled, unless otherwise authorized by the Department, and eighty per centum of the amount of all deliveries made will be paid by the Navy agent at within ten days after warrants for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

No part of the per centum reserved is to be paid until all the rejected articles offered under the contract shall have been removed from the yard, unless specially authorized by the Department.

It will be stipulated in the contract that if default shall be made by the parties of the first part in delivering all or any of the articles mentioned in any class bid for, of the quality and at the times and places above provided, then and in that case the said parties will forfeit and pay to the United States a sum of money not to exceed twice the amount of such class, which may be recovered, from time to time, according to the act of Congress in that case provided, approved March 3, 1843.

The sureties must sign the contract, and their responsibilities be certified to by a Navy Agent, Collector, District-Attorney, Clerk of the District Court, or some other person satisfactorily known to the Bureau.

It is to be provided in the contract that the Bureau shall have the power of annulling the contract, without loss or damage to the Government, in case Congress shall not have made sufficient appropriations for the articles named, or for the completion of works estimated for, and on which this advertisement is based.

Persons whose offers shall be accepted will be notified by letter through the Post-office, which notice shall be considered sufficient: and if they do not enter into contract for the supplies specified within ten days from the date of notice from the Bureau of the acceptance of their bid, a contract will be made with some other person or persons, and the guarantors of such defaulting bidders will be held responsible for all delinquencies.

All offers not made in strict conformity with this advertisement will, at the option of the Bureau, be rejected.

Those only whose offers may be accepted will be notified, and contracts will be ready for execution as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

IMPORTANT FROM REBELDOM.

Organization of Powerful Union Forces in East Tennessee and Western North Carolina.

Twenty Thousand Insurgents Offer to Join the Union Army on the Occupation of Raleigh.

FORTRESS MONROE, Friday, June 19.

The United States transport Emilie arrived to-day from Newbern, with advices from our correspondent there to the 17th. He reports as follows:

The rebel Committee on River Fortifications report the Union forces in the possession of a belt of country three hundred miles long by one hundred and fifty wide, with inland seas and rivers filled with Union gunboats, reaching through North Carolina and Virginia, which prevents fortifications being constructed; that while this continues, the permanent secession of North Carolina and Virginia cannot be expected. The Unionists in Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina have organized powerful forces, and joined by thousands of deserters and conscripts from the rebel army, to whom protection is guaranteed, for the purpose of holding the mountain region against the rebel Government.

Rebel citizens have petitioned Gov. VANCE for protection against this organization. VANCE replies that he has no troops to send; they must protect themselves. Twenty thousand insurgents have openly offered to join the Union troops as soon as a military post is established at Raleigh.

Gen. Sherman Approaching the Rebel Works.

The Rebels Driven From Their Rifle-Pits.

A SHARP ENGAGEMENT.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, June 19.

The Democrat, of this city, has a special dispatch from Vicksburgh, which says:

"At 2 o'clock on last Saturday morning our approaches from Gen. SHERMAN's corps were pushed up to the rebel rifle-pits, and to within twenty yards of one of their bastions.

The rebels threw lighted shells over the parapets on our approach, and received in return twenty-three hand grenades, twenty of which exploded, driving the rebels out.

On Friday the rebels cut away the timber in the rear of their lines, and opened on us with an 11-inch shell and two or three siege guns. Gen. LOGAN silenced their mortar with his 30-pounder Parrott's and 92-pounders.

Thirteen of our gunboats patrol the river between Helena and Young's Point.

The gunboat Marmora destroyed the town of Eunice on Saturday."

GEN. GRANT'S PRISONERS.

BALTIMORE, Friday, June 19.

Sixteen hundred rebel prisoners captured by Gen. GRANT arrived here this morning on their way to Fortress Monroe to be exchanged. They were escorted through the city by the New-York Seventh regiment. Their motley dress and unintelligent countenances were in striking contrast with the appearance of the boys of the Seventh.

The Destruction of Bluffton—Official Report from Admiral Dupont.

WASHINGTON, Friday, June 19.

The Navy Department has received from Admiral DUPONT the particulars attending the destruction of Bluffton, S. C.

It appears that on the 3d inst. he ordered Lieutenant-Commander BACON to proceed with the Commodore McDonough on this expedition. The army forces from Gen. HUNTER's command numbered one thousand, on board the transport Mayflower and another army transport, under the command of Col. BARTON. By order of this officer, the town of Bluffton was destroyed by fire, the church there only being spared.

Though the rebel troops made several charges on our forces, they were driven back by the shells and shrapnel of the Commodore McDonough.

Bluffton being entirely destroyed, the soldiers reembarked without casualties and returned to Hilton Head.

The Admiral says that the expedition was a complete success, owing to the hearty coöperation of both branches of the service.

MOVEMENTS OF CITY REGIMENTS.

DEPARTURE OF THE FIFTH

Preparations for the Departure of Other Regiments.

The Fifth regiment N. Y. S. M. effected its departure for the seat of war about 8 o'clock last evening, numbering about six hundred men, fully armed and equipped. They were escorted on their route down Broadway by a very large number of our German fellow-citizens, of which nationality the regiment is composed. They are a credit both to the Teutonic race and the Metropolis, and will compare favorably with almost any of our City corps. Their enthusiasm for the cause was immense, and the fair German damsels, many of whom accompanied them, bedecked many a musket with fragrant flowers. The ranks were filled with stalwart soldiers, as staunch and true as any the Republic can boast, and they received the god-speed of as fine a class of our population as has turned out on a similar occasion. Their march down Broadway, though at an unexpected hour was a continued ovation, and will long be remembered by all who witnessed it. They will do, as they have already done, credit to the City. The following are their officers:

Colonel, L. BURGER; Lieut.-Colonel, G. P. B. Dodge; Major, A. Meyer; Adjutant, W. Dickel; Surgeon, Dr. C. F. W. Hassel; Assistant Surgeon, Dr. B. St. John Rosa; Quartermaster, E. Wilson; Chaplain, Rev. C. Eddy.

SPECIAL ORDERS.—Major-Gen. SANDFORD, commanding First division New-York State National Guard, is directed to send as many regiments as he can furnish, and as full as possible, to Harrisburgh, in Pennsylvania, and report to Major-Gen. COUCH, commanding Department, to assist in repelling the invasion of that State.

Gen. SANDFORD will exercise his discretion as to the organization of these regiments into such brigades as he may deem expedient, and will designate the Brigadier-Generals from his division who will command them during the present term of duty.

He is authorized to direct requisitions to be made upon the Commissary-General for arms and accoutrements, and upon the Quartermaster-General for clothing and camp equipage. By order of

HORATIO SEYMOUR,
Commander-in-Chief.

JOHN T. SPRAGUE, Adjutant-General.

FIRST DIVISION NEW-YORK NATIONAL GUARD,

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 3.—The foregoing orders from General Headquarters are promulgated for the information and government of the division. By order of Major-Gen. CHAS. W. SANDFORD.

THE NEW-YORK MILITIA.

Organization of the National Guard.

ALBANY, Friday, June 19.

An important order, organizing the National Guard of the State of New-York, uniformed militia, was issued by Gov. SEYMOUR to-day. It provides for the formation of a separate regiment or battalion of infantry in each Assembly District, and constitutes each Senatorial District a brigade district. Existing officers may retain their rank and commands by filling up their respective organizations in the new districts in which they may reside. But if two or more of equal rank shall fall into the same district, all but the one assigned to command by the Governor will become supernumerary. No officer or organization will be continued unless the command is immediately recruited up to a fighting point. That is to say, Captains and companies are given thirty days to get thirty-two men; Colonels and regiments sixty days to get six companies, or an aggregate of 320 men; and Brigadier-Generals and brigades are given until the 15th of September next to get at least two regiments, or 1,000 men. Failing in this the commands are to be consolidated or disbanded, and the officers rendered supernumerary or dismissed. Regiments will be entitled to arms, equipments and uniforms on presenting for inspection an aggregate of 400 men. The determination is to infuse activity into the organization, and to weed out all indifferent officers. The Inspector-General is charged by law with the duty of organizing the State forces, and will carry out this order in letter and spirit. The Counties of New-York and Kings will not be affected by this order.

IODINE WATER.

A SOLUTION OF
PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

No remedy has ever come before the public so wonderful in its curative powers, so astounding in its results. Its genuineness as a Pure Solution, and its excellence as a Medicine, are attested by some of the most distinguished names known to science in America and Europe.

The amount of ability, zeal, and assiduity which has been devoted to the elucidation of its effects upon the Human System has not been exceeded in the instance of any other article in Materia Medica; and it is acknowledged to possess very great powers in the cure of many obstinate diseases, over which other remedies have little or no influence.

The unparalleled success in private practice and the indorsement of high medical authority enable us to recommend as a specific cure for the following diseases: viz.: Scrofula, in all its manifold forms. Consumption, Cancer, Bronchitis, Liver Complaints, Heart Diseases, Bilious Fevers, Fever and Ague, Nervous Affections, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Female Weaknesses, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, General Debility, Syphilis, in all its various and afflicting stages, and the only remedy for the successful eradication of Mercurial Diseases, and, in fact, all those distressing and afflicting maladies which arise from an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, defective nutrition and impure atmosphere, &c.

That the public may be enlightened as to the nature and uses of Iodine, and be led to appreciate the benefit to be derived from this discovery, the outline of its history is herewith subjoined:

Iodine is an elementary body, discovered in the year 1812, by a soda manufacturer, at Paris. Some years after, its therapeutic (curative) powers were tried; these having been found valuable, it is now recognized as a standard remedy. It received its name from the Greek word which heads this advertisement.

Iodine exists in certain marine vegetables, particularly the fuci or common sea-weed, and in some fresh-water plants, among which are the water-cress, brooklime, and fine-leaved water hemlock. In the animal kingdom, in the sponge, oyster, various polypi, &c. It is also found in the mineral kingdom, in certain salt springs, in a rare Mexican mineral combined with silver, and in the zinc ore of Silesia.

Iodine was first discovered in the United States in the water of the Congress Spring, Saratoga, by Dr. Wm. Usher. It has also been detected in various other mineral springs in this country and in Europe. Of all substances, sea-weeds are probably the most rich in producing Iodine, especially those growing in the deep sea, as the fucus Palmatus of Linnæus.

Iodine was first employed as a medicine in 1820, by Coindet, of Geneva, who obtained such striking results that its reputation soon spread, and it was employed in various diseases, and with the greatest advantage. Since that time it has been the subject of repeated experiments by savans all over the world, in the confident belief that, as a therapeutic agent, it conceals powers and properties more subtle and efficient than anything yet known in the catalogue of human benefits.

Nature seems to have made copious use of it herself as a physician, in preparing certain mineral springs, most esteemed for their wholesome properties; and it may safely be said that all the benefit derived from the drinking of the Congress and Saratoga waters in this country, the Salts of Piedmont, King's Well, at Bath, &c., is owing to the Iodine they contain.

This principle, which was unknown until 1812, we find now recorded as a standard remedy, with the testimony of eminent physicians in every part of the world.

Dr. Cogswell, of Edinburgh, remarks: "As Iodine acts as powerfully on the digestive tube, it should also affect the urinary organs, many of the members decidedly experienced these secondary effects. Moreover, since Iodine acts not only upon the surface of the intestines, but also on that of the parts which open into them, on the glands of the mouth and stomach, it should increase the salivary, gastric, pancreatic and biliary secretions. It must, therefore, modify in a high degree the processes of assimilation and nutrition if properly employed. Should we not expect the best effects from it in diseases of the viscera, depending upon weakness and a congested state of these organs, in scrofula and similar affections?"

Dr. Alex. Manson, of Nottingham, England, in his interesting and highly instructive work on the effects of Iodine, uses this language: "It possesses powers in the cure of many obstinate diseases over which other remedies have little or no influence. I have recommended, not from caprice or fondness of novelty, but because I have found the treatment by Iodine much more efficacious than any other method with which I am acquainted in the following diseases, viz.: Bronchochele, or Goitre, Paralysis, Chorea, or St. Vitus' Dance, Scrofula, Scrofulous Opthalmia, Deafness, Dysphagia, White Swellings, and Distortions of the Spine. * * * I must say that I am not without hope that in Iodine we possess a remedy that bids fairer than any other to prevent the formation of tubercles, (in the lungs,) or to dissipate them in their incipient state."

It has been proved by Dr. Buchanan, of Glasgow, Cantu and others, that Iodine enters into a number of the secretions; and it has been detected in the urine, sweat, milk and blood, but it does not accumulate in the system, as was proven by Drs. Manson, Becquerel and Dalton.

Iodine has the power of dissolving Mercury and Lead, and the presence of organic matter does not prevent these changes. It dissolves metallic mercury, and all the mercurial compounds which can possibly occur in the living body. Melsens is of the opinion that Iodine acts curatively in these cases, by dissolving the fixed union existing between the metal and the organic tissues, and by forming a soluble compound, which passes off by the kidneys. Dr. Seguin, a French physician, praises its effects in obstinate intermittents, which have resisted quinine. Dr. Lugol mentions instances, among his scofulous patients, in which it cured obstructed and painful menstruations. It has been affirmed in the London Lancet that, in cases of suppressed measles and scarlatina, it will frequently induce a healthy reaction under the most desperate circumstances.

The use of Iodine in Neuralgia has been of the utmost benefit. A patient, whose life had been embittered for five years with neuropathic maladies, and who suffered at the time from a very painful affection of the head and neck, with occasional and frequent pain of the arms and legs, was speedily relieved, and within six weeks completely cured, after arsenic, mercury, and most of the narcotics, had been prescribed in vain. In different forms of rheumatism, Iodine has been given with the greatest success. When rheumatism assumes a chronic form, or if there should exist a strenuous or syphilitic taint, no remedy is equal to Iodine. In glandular enlargements and morbid growth, the power of Iodine is highly esteemed. In induration, or enlargement of the Liver or Spleen, where mercury has failed or is inadmissible, Iodine forms the best recourse.

Dr. Horace Green, President of the New-York Medical College, observes:

"An increased nutrition of the body, or embonpoint, is the frequent result of the employment of Iodine; the patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid." He further says: "In the administration of Iodine in follicular diseases, I have found, almost invariably, a specific effect produced upon the organs of secretion by the use of the medicine, and equally salutary are the effects produced, ordinarily, in the digestive organs."

The tonic operation of Iodine is evinced by its strengthening the digestive organs and increasing the appetite, which are among the most constant effects of its use.

The great objection to the use of Iodine as a medicine hitherto has been its supposed insolubility in water, and of the necessity of administering it in combination with some other substances, calculated either to neutralize the wholesome effects of the prescription or to do an unexpected mischief; there seemed to be no way of introducing pure Iodine into the system, and thus realizing all the benefits of which its use might be susceptible, until Dr. Henry Anders, a Chemist and Physician of this City, discovered the extraordinary secret of dissolving Iodine in pure water. (See Certificates.)

It is in Scrofulous diseases that the most interesting results have been accomplished by the use of Iodine. We are indebted to the eminent Dr. Lugol, of Paris, for the most extended and valuable researches in the use of Iodine in the different forms of Scrofula. This physician began a systematic course of treatment with this remedy in the St. Louis Hospital, Paris, in 1827. He made known his results in three memoirs, published in 1829, '30, '31, in which he infers that the most astonishing results might be anticipated, if Iodine could be dissolved in pure water.

These memoirs give the details of a success which would stagger belief, were not the results substantiated by Committees of distinguished physicians of the French Royal Academy of Sciences. The most happy results are also recorded of the treatment of Rheumatism, both chronic and acute; and in Syphilis, where the distress and agony were almost unendurable, the patient has been relieved in an exceedingly short time. Many cases of White Swelling have been cured, and in some, where much disorganization had occurred, and the loss of a whole limb was apprehended, yet the use of Iodine arrested the destructive process, and the limbs were preserved.

Consumption, or phthisis pulmonalis, is generally considered as closely allied to Scrofula. In fact it is often called "Scrofula of the lungs." In scrofulous families, members, especially children, die from disease in the chest, and reciprocally in families affected with pulmonary tubercles, the children die of scrofulous disease. In common terms a family is scrofulous when scrofulous diseases cause a greater mortality than pulmonary tubercles; and it is tuberculous when tuberculization of the lungs cuts off a larger number than other scrofulous diseases. These tubercles are a production of the same character, and require the same course of treatment for their successful eradication. It is a well-demonstrated fact that consumption has been and CAN BE CURED when taken in the primary stages, and, although it is impossible to cure it in its last stage, great alleviation of distress and of oppression in the chest has resulted from the use of Iodine Water.

The evidence of the success of this medicine, and the facts enumerated above, we will be pleased to show to any one who will call at our office.

TESTIMONIALS.

Certificate of Dr. James R. Chilton, the celebrated Chemist, after analyzing Anders' Iodine Water:

I have analyzed the Iodine Water prepared by Dr. Anders, and find it to be a solution of pure Iodine in water. It has long been a desideratum to prepare Iodine so that it can be administered in its uncombined state; this preparation by Dr. Anders enables us to effect that object. Each fluid ounce of the Water contains about half a grain of Iodine. I consider it a valuable preparation, and one which will prove serviceable in all those cases where the use of Iodine is indicated.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist.

Certificate from Prof. James C. Booth, United States Mint, Philadelphia.

Dr. HENRY ANDERS: The sample of Iodine Water tested by me I find to be Iodine dissolved in pure water.

Respectfully yours, JAMES C. BOOTH.

To these may be added the remarks of the American Medical Monthly, edited by Edward H. Parker, A. M., M. D.:

IODINE WATER—Samples of a preparation with this name have been sent to us by Dr. Anders, of this City, by whom it is prepared. Chemists generally state that Iodine can be dissolved in water, but that the solution is a very weak one, containing, in fact, 1-7,000 part of Iodine by weight. Dr. Anders states that this is only a simple solution in Croton water, and may be made as strong as three-fourths of a grain to the ounce. The preparation is a decidedly brown fluid, with a strong smell and taste of Iodine. When allowed to stand in an open vessel the color and taste both disappear, the remainder being simply limpid water. We have seen a copy of the report of an analysis made by Dr. Chilton, in which he states that he finds it "to be a solution of pure Iodine in water." It is a question of interest, by no means unworthy of investigation, what may be the therapeutical value of this preparation. If we can in this way introduce pure Iodine into the system, without combination with any other substance, important results may follow. Practitioners should remember this solution when prescribing Iodine.
